

Is your name on the 'prime sucker list'?

Swindle-by-mail: a booming half-billion dollar industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're looking for a quick way to get rich, lose weight, grow hair, remove wrinkles or become a better lover, you're a target for a fast-growing, half-billion dollar industry — mail fraud.

Postal Service officials say the swindle-by-mail business is so sophisticated it has developed a legitimate offshoot. One promoter is peddling the names of his best customers, a "prime sucker list."

Anyone looking for a start in swindling can purchase the list legally. That way he doesn't have to drum up his own clientele.

Officials responsible for policing mail fraud say it is both diverse and booming. "The variety of stuff around is amazing," said George Davis, assistant general counsel for the Post Office.

The Postal Service estimates swindlers who made about $194 million two years ago upped their take to at least $514 million in fiscal 1976.

Postal authorities stress that most of the $60 billion-a-year mail order industry is reputable. But they warn consumers to be suspicious of products and direct-mail offers that seem too good to be true.

Recent examples include a cream to "quickly enlarge the bustline up to five times while sleeping" and a "youth mask" guaranteed to produce the "equivalent to a miniature facelift."

Unscrupulous promoters have used the mails to sell the public worthless diet pills, fake medical devices, phony investment plans, pseudo cures for baldness and impotency, so-called aphrodisiacs, and fake devices to remove wrinkles and increase the length of fingernails.

Another outfit advertised executive job openings in a nonexistent chain of supermarkets.

One rip-off artist had a religious twist, soliciting priests for donations to help win canonization of John Neumann, a 19th century Philadelphia bishop who already had been chosen for sainthood.

To combat mail-order promoters who advertise falsely or who fail to furnish the product they promise, the Postal Service can stop delivering them their mail, cutting off the supply of cash. Or it can move under the nation's oldest consumer protection law, the 1872 mail fraud law, to seek jail terms against the operators.

Enforcement of existing laws ran one company out of business, but may have put it into an even more lucrative field, Postal Officials say.

Postal Service attorney Thomas Ziebarth said a group was advertising "a new line of incredibly practical, unwoven polyester and rayon-blend towels. Set of five for $1." The towels turned out to be a paperlike substance, and the firm was shut down, Ziebarth said.

Undeterred, the operators bought space in trade publications to advertise sale of its "prime sucker list," persons who had been conned by the towel business.

The Postal Service can watch, but not touch the sucker list advertisements, Ziebarth said, adding they appear more lucrative to their owners than the inexpensive towels.

"You can't make much on a $1 product, but they had a mailing list that wouldn't stop. Apparently, there is a market for this sort of thing," Ziebarth said.

Governors seek federal aid for drought areas

DENVER (AP) — Western and midwestern governors, while seeking federal aid to get them through the current drought, are looking for some long-range solutions to persistent water-shortage problems.

Governors from 11 states and representatives from six others met on Sunday with Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus at the invitation of Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm. They unanimously endorsed establishment of a task force to study water problems and ways to ease shortages, and they discussed the need for immediate federal aid.

Andrus met some displeasure from governors who were upset after learning through administration sources that President Carter may eliminate funding for 18 dams and water projects in 15 states.

Andrus said he considered it "regrettable" they heard of the plan before he could contact them personally. "The timing was unfortunate. It would have helped this meeting if the announcement had come next week," he said.

North Dakota Gov. Arthur Link said he didn't think the Carter proposal made sense and added, "It's hardly in keeping with a policy of sensitivity to states' needs."

The Garrison Irrigation Project in North Dakota, which Link said would supply water to 26 communities, is among the projects being considered for fund cuts.

Reporting on the extent of the drought, Jack Barnett, executive director of the Western States Water Council, said the average streamflow in most of the West was 40 to 50 per cent of normal. He said that estimate was "optimistic."

Some governors said they were concerned particularly about effects on agriculture and livestock production — the lifeblood of many western and midwestern states.

"We're in the worst drought as far as Nebraska is concerned since the terrible drought of the 1930s," said Gov. James Exon of Nebraska.

Exon said he felt the federal government should give more aid to farmers, including loans for storage of food surpluses.

Some of the governors said a shortage of hydro-electric power was their main concern, but others, like Oklahoma Gov. David Boren, said they feared the drought's impact on banking.

"We could be forced into foreclosures and other situations that could ultimately affect our financial institutions," Boren said.

Other governors at the meeting were from Oregon, California, Washington, Montana, Utah, Idaho, and South Dakota. Governors of Texas, New Mexico, Kansas, Arizona, Nevada and Wyoming sent representatives.

Watson faces surgery today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — County Assessor Philip E. Watson, whose office has become the focal point of controversy over spiraling property taxes, is scheduled to undergo open heart surgery today.

Press Secretary Steve Stewart said Watson, 52, had experienced periodic chest pains since a 1968 heart attack and would undergo a coronary bypass operation at St. Francis Hospital in Lynwood, where he was admitted Tuesday.

In recent months, Los Angeles County Supervisor Baxter Ward launched an investigation into Watson's assessments. The assessor recently announced a controversial move to keep 170,000 newly appraised homes on the 1977 tax roll at their previous assessed value.

Light rain may reach valley Tuesday

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

A storm that has momentarily brought relief to the drought-stricken northern part of the state will move into Southern California late today, bringing with it a 30 per cent chance of rain in the valley area.

The storm system is moving south along the coast and is weakening. Forecasters say it will be dissipated by late Tuesday.

Chances of light rain will increase to 30 per cent late tonight and early Tuesday morning, with clearing expected by Tuesday night.

Local temperatures will be cooler, with a high today of about 70 and only 66 on Tuesday. Overnight low will be 50.

Some rain was reported Sunday in parched counties north of San Francisco, but not enough to ease drought conditions.

Rough surf and cooler temperatures caused by the storm ended the summer-like conditions at California beaches although an estimated 300,000 persons were on the sand south of Point Zuma Sunday.

Most didn't venture into the water, however, as surf was running up to five feet.

2 teen-agers found slain

By DAN NIEBRUGGE

Fontana Police are today investigating the apparent shotgun slaying of two teen-agers whose bodies were found in a Fontana wash Sunday by local hunters.

The bodies of a boy and a girl, ages of both estimated between 15 and 20, were found in a wash about 3 p.m. Sunday just north of Base Line Road about three-quarters of a mile east of East Avenue in Fontana. The region is an open area criss-crossed by washes, railroad tracks, and a freeway.

Neither body has as yet been identified. Each victim received a single gunshot wound to the head. The body of the male victim was fully clothed, the female's body was discovered nude, police said.

Preliminary findings indicated the slayings occurred between Friday and Sunday. Police said they had so far been unable to fit the descriptions of the two victims to any persons reported missing.

Police said further information might be available upon completion of the autopsy by the San Bernardino County Coroner's office.

Arson now suspected in blazes

Arson now is suspected in two La Puente-area school fires which did a total of $115,000 damage, Los Angeles County Sheriff's deputies said today.

The latest fire was early Sunday at the Temple Elementary School at 635 California Ave. in Valinda. In that blaze, two classrooms were destroyed before county firemen could extinguish the flames.

Deputies said that investigators found that a flammable liquid had been used in the Temple Elementary School fire.

Early Saturday at Nelson Elementary School, nearby at 330 California Ave. in La Puente, flames destroyed two classrooms and heavily damaged two others.

Canada's Trudeau pays visit to White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — With nary a ruffle or a flourish for himself but four for his visitor, President Carter is welcoming Canada's prime minister for two days of discussions ranging from nuclear controls to rival fishing rights.

Prime Minister and Mrs. Pierre Elliott Trudeau arrive at the White House today to a 19-gun salute.

The President's foreign visitor highlighted a day of Carter meetings with his senior staff, the Cabinet and Vice President Walter Mondale. Carter planned a state dinner for Trudeau at the White House tonight.

Although the President had said he would cut some of the customary pomp and circumstance for foreign dignitaries, he ordered up the Army Band for four ruffles and flourishes to greet Trudeau. Five military guard units were summoned for review.

As he had last week for his first foreign visitor, Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, Carter dispensed with ruffles, flourishes and "Hail to the Chief" for himself.

There were only the national anthem and the Canadian anthem.

"Obviously we'll recognize the foreign leader in the proper form," Carter has said about his cutback in formality. "But I don't approve of the 'Ruffles and Flourishes' and 'Hail to the Chief' for me."

In the afternoon, Carter and Trudeau planned to discuss global matters, including the proposed London economic summit, East-West relations, curbing the spread of nuclear technology, arms sales and the laws of the sea.

On Tuesday, they planned talks on U.S.-Canadian issues, emphasizing mutual economic, environmental and energy concerns. Attempts in the United States to ease unemployment problems and inflation have ripple effects in Canada, and the reverse is true.

Canadian and American needs for energy sources, such as petroleum reserves, have brought the two countries into conflict over rights to continental shelves in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Vance wraps up Mid East trip

'Sharp differences' hurt Arab-Israeli talks

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said today "very sharp differences" remain among the Israelis and the Arabs on how to deal with the Palestinians and other issues standing in the way of resumption of Mideast peace talks in Geneva.

Vance told a news conference before departing for home after his six-nation Middle East tour that "all parties agree on the need for peace" and would like to redirect their economies away from massive military expenditures.

But "one must be careful not to be overly optimistic," he cautioned.

The secretary of state was seen off at the airport by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdulhalim Khaddam.

He told reporters that his visits to Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Syria gave him "a clear understanding" of the Middle East situation. He said all six governments are prepared to resume the Geneva talks during the second half of this year. But he said the Arabs themselves were divided on how Palestinian interests should be represented.

A major topic of Vance's week of talks was ways to bring the Palestinians into negotiations with Israel, which refuses to negotiate with the Palestinian Liberation Organization until it formally recognizes Israel's right to exist.

Vance said the Israelis and Arabs do not even share the same definition of peace. To the Israelis, peace includes full diplomatic relations, he said, but to the Arabs, it involves only an end to the state of war with relations developing later.

The secretary of state said Syrian President Hafez Assad would probably meet President Carter in Europe in May, after other Arab and Israeli leaders visit Washington in March and April for a series of meetings to work out plans for resumption of the Geneva conference. The United States and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the conference.

The secretary flew to Damascus on Sunday from Saudi Arabia for talks with Assad, whom he praised as "an outstanding statesman."

Political activists gather, seek reform

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Political activists ranging from liberal Democrats to left-wing socialists gathered here over the weekend to form a coalition to change the nation's economic system.

The California Conference on Alternative Public Policy contains many of the people involved in the anti-Vietnam War movement who said they feel their new goal is harder than ending a war.

"The problem is not like warts which can be scraped off," said Tom Hayden, who lost the Democratic senatorial nomination last summer. "The problem is in people's minds."

He said success will depend on "awakening the public to the influence on their lives of major corporations, as well as holding an active coalition together."

Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally advised the 750 activists to "be tolerant and understanding when conflicts of values arise. This coalition can last if you listen to what the other people have to say, if you mix your idealism with a little pragmatism...and work for equal distribution of the pie for blacks, for Asians, for chicanos and Caucasians."

The first test of the coalition's ability to compromise came when the group adopted a preamble. It was moved that the organization advocate "an end to the private corporate control of our economy."

But Hayden warned that the group would be isolating itself politically if it went that far. His suggestion won out and the preamble said, "The control of our economy by giant monopoly corporations must end."

Congressman Ronald Dellums, D-Oakland, and United Farmworkers leader Cesar Chavez also spoke at the conference that adopted a manifesto to "control corporations."

The plan would be implemented by making politicians realize the power of the coalition and working through the party system, Hayden said.

Spokesmen said some of the coalition's aims are to:

Place representatives on corporate boards of directors to represent workers, consumers and communities to assure that corporate actions are not based solely on profit motives.

Enact a law specifying a firm's responsibilities to the community in which it does business. Compliance with the act would be a requirement for doing business. Corporations also would be required to spend a percentage of their income on community projects such as cleaning the environment.

Require corporations to prepare "community impact statements" detailing the effect of a decision to close a factory and relocate outside the United States. The coalition suggests that the move would not be permitted unless the business paid a "severance tax."

Restrict the rights of businesses to make campaign contributions.

Pomona board to study discipline problems

The Pomona school board will hold its fourth special meeting of 1977 Tuesday to discuss problems of campus discipline in the district's secondary schools.

The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. in the auditorium of Simons Jr. High School at the southeast corner of Franklin and Towne Avenues.

Site of the meeting was changed from the Education Center board room because of the large audience expected to attend. The Education Center auditorium was already committed for a candidates' forum Tuesday evening and could not be used.

The meeting should attract an especially large gathering of residents from the Ganesha High School area. Ganesha has been a source of controversy for the past two months as residents of Elwood Street have complained of harassment by students as well as non-students.

frequenting the area around Kennedy Park.

A large gathering of pro-Kennedy Park forces is also expected to be present at the meeting.

The board has recently been examining two proposals to deal with campus disciplinary problems. One

Gov. Brown to ponder water use

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., after attending a conference of governors in Denver concerning the Western drought, says he will suggest this week by how much state water use should be cut.

He gave a "preliminary figure" of 25 per cent during a meeting Saturday here with state officials about the drought in California.

Any recommendation Brown gives will be general; he said he would make no actual conservation suggestions.

Curtailment will be "implemented on the local level. The actual form of the curtailment will be developed by local districts," said Brown.

Before attending the Denver meeting Sunday, Brown said he meant to inquire about getting federal disaster relief help, especially for farmers and cattlemen.

One estimate of the financial impact of the drought on California is $4 billion, according to an aide to Brown.

At the Denver meeting, Brown complained that "there's somebody in Washington or a collection of somebodies who don't think the West is important enough."

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus told Brown and the other governors that President Carter would discuss their concerns about the drought at a cabinet meeting Monday.

Brown pointed out that the drought is part of a resources shortage that is also manifested in the energy shortage.

"We are in an era of limitations," said Brown. "Our resources are inextricably linked together."

Four killed in accident

GLEN IVY (AP) — A Norwalk man has been booked for investigation of drunken driving and manslaughter in a head-on car crash that killed four persons, officials said.

Stephen Shafer, 25, was booked at Corona Community Hospital, where he was being treated for injuries received in the crash Saturday night, the highway patrol reported.

The four dead were identified as George Cole, 54; his wife Jeanne, 55; Bernard Ellis, 62; and his wife Marjorie, 60. The Coles were Los Angeles residents, and the Ellises were from Pasadena, the Riverside County Coroner's office said.

Rocket kills two youths

TWENTYNINE PALMS (AP) — Two youths have been killed when they accidentally set off a 60-millimeter rocket on a missile target range at the U.S. Marine base near this desert town.

They were identified as Richard Books, 17, of Manhattan Beach and Shane Kirgbaum, 11, of Inglewood. They had been staying in a nearby cabin with a friend, authorities said.

Man killed in food blender

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A maintenance man has been killed when a large food blender in which he was working was accidentally turned on, according to the San Diego County coroner's office.

A coroner's spokesman said Richard Wesson, 49, died of numerous injuries and internal bleeding after the incident Sunday at the Food-Maker Inc., plant.

The spokesman said Wesson was repairing a blade inside the seven-foot long blender when another person tripped and accidentally fell against the blender starting button.

Sun Valley girl killed

TUJUNGA (AP) — A 16-year-old Sun Valley girl has been killed when the motorcycle on which she was a passenger ran off a road and overturned in Big Tujunga Canyon.

Los Angeles sheriff's officers identified the girl as Sandra Schlax. The driver of the motorcycle, David Grifins, 27, of Glendale, was hospitalized in critical condition.

Burglary suspect shot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say a burglary suspect who grabbed at the gun of a policeman was shot in the chest and critically wounded.

A police spokesman said officer Larry James shot Masao Yoshida, 25, after James answered a call from a housewife who said someone was trying to break into her home.

Cruiser lost at sea

LONG BEACH (AP) — While the Coast Guard searched for a sailor whose 24-foot cabin cruiser had sunk, he hitched a ride to Catalina Island on another vessel, officials said.

Charles Huey of Carson told the Coast Guard he floated on a rubber raft after his boat went under and held on until the private boat picked him up Sunday afternoon.

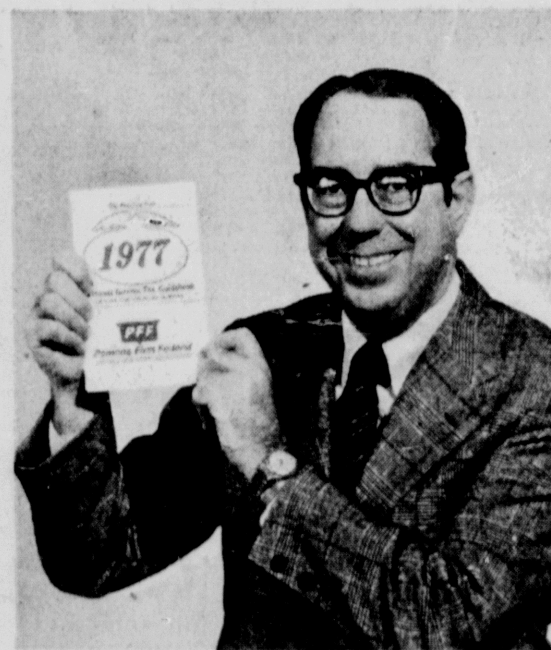

"He put out a mayday call," said a Coast Guard spokesman. "But his position was off 11 miles. We were searching and found wreckage of the boat at the edge of our search area."

Because the private vessel did not have a radio, the Coast Guard did not know about the rescue until Huey called from the island, the spokesman said.

Gas withholding charges leveled by Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is taking its own look into allegations that natural gas producers deliberately are holding back production to spur deregulation and obtain higher prices.

Two House subcommittees, whose chairmen are poles apart on the issue of removing federal price controls from natural gas, have scheduled hearings for this week to delve into the allegations.

A House interior subcommittee meets today and a House commerce subcommittee meets Tuesday and Wednesday, both on the same subject. Both panels have summoned Interior Department officials to testify on a departmental report that claims 10 major producers in the Gulf of Mexico had cut back on production despite gas shortages.

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus last week ordered a probe of offshore natural gas fields to find why the gas production was cut back. The Interior Department study did not specifically accuse producers of deliberately withholding the gas, but such allegations have come from congressional critics of the industry, among others.

The second panel, the commerce oversight and investigations subcommittee, plans to fortify the Interior Department report with results of its own staff investigation — a probe committee aides claim was far more extensive and productive than the department's.

Aides said the committee study documents numerous instances of gas withholding, the result of a two-month investigation conducted by committee investigators who visited Gulf Coast oil and gas reserves.

The commerce subcommittee also has called an industry representative, Texaco vice president Richard Palmer, to answer the charges that production was cut back.

The commerce panel is headed by Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., a longtime critic of the gas industry who favors continuing federal price controls on gas transported in interstate pipelines.

By contrast, the interior subcommittee is headed by Rep. Abraham Kazen Jr., D-Texas., who favors lifting the federal price limits.

Kazen voted against President Carter's emergency natural gas legislation; Moss supported it. That bill, passed earlier this month, gave the President the power to order gas moved around the country to get it to areas that needed it the most because of the severe winter.

Robbery suspect shot by victim

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

A Claremont liquor store owner shot and critically wounded a man armed with a small handgun during a robbery at the Gourmet Liquor Store, 1189 N. Central Ave., Claremont, Sunday night, said sheriff's deputies.

Harvey Ray Norris, 29, of Upland, was shot at least two times. He was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital where his condition today is listed as stable.

Sheriff's deputies were called to the store about 8 p.m. by the owner who reported he had shot a robber. When deputies arrived, they found Norris in front of the store bleeding. The store owner, Levi Batian, said a man entered his business and approached the counter while holding a handgun.

The man demanded cash from the register. Batian complied, handing him a small amount of money, said deputies.

The robber directed Batian to lie on the floor. Batian said he crouched down and obtained his own gun. He then grabbed the suspect as he started to run out the door, but the suspect raised his gun hand and Batian fired, said investigators.

Deputies said the suspect reached the front door before he collapsed.

Ontarian injured by fall in his boat

An Ontario man suffered a broken hip and pelvis late Sunday afternoon when he fell in his boat at Puddingstone Lake in the Frank G. Bonelli Regional Park, sheriff's deputies reported.

The victim, Robert R. Boulais, 33, was treated first at San Dimas Community Hospital and transferred later to Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Fontana.

Deputies reported that Boulais told them he was crossing heavy waves created by other motorboats when he was thrown against the side of his own boat. He was given first aid by county fire department paramedics on the north shore of the lake before being transported to the hospital.

Poisonous gas sends 17 to hospital

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP) — A cloud of poisonous chlorine gas from a Dow Chemical plant here sent 17 persons to hospitals and forced 50 families to leave their homes for two hours.

A company spokesman said 200 pounds of chlorine leaked into the air on Sunday after a tank ruptured at a chlorine production unit on the Mississippi River.

At one point, an Iberville Parish deputy sheriff described the leak as a green cloud "a thousand feet high." The cloud moved eastward, over an agricultural area across the river.

The cause of the leak was not immediately known. State police and sheriff's officers said there was an explosion at the plant, but a Dow spokesman denied it.

Propane tankers explode

DALLAS (AP) — Residents returned today to North Dallas homes abandoned after two propane tankers of a 55-car freight train exploded Sunday night. There were no reports of injuries.

The blast just before 8 p.m. shook much of the north side of the city. Flames could be seen 50 miles away.

"Every building within a half-mile radius has been damaged to some extent," said Pete Nunez, a fire department spokesman.

Windows in nearby warehouses and office buildings were blown out and parts of one small warehouse were demolished. Officials said light evening traffic and the absence of a normal number of workmen prevented deaths or serious injuries.

Investigators had no immediate explanation for the explosion, although they were trying to determine if the Santa Fe train had derailed just before the blast.

Car goes over cliff; two injured

Two people were injured when their car went off a winding mountain road and down a 500-foot cliff on Mt. Baldy Sunday afternoon. They were trapped in their vehicle and had to be rescued by the West End sheriff's search-and-rescue team.

The driver, Douglas E. Johnson, 18, of 5559 Denver St., Montclair, told the highway patrol that he lost the steering as he was coming down the dirt truck trail of Barrett-Stoddard Road four miles east of Mt. Baldy Road.

He and his passenger, Julie Gay Lyda, 17, of Garden Grove, were flown by sheriff's helicopter to San Antonio Community Hospital. Johnson was treated and released. Miss Lyda was transferred to Orange County Hospital in serious but stable condition.

Forum for school candidates

A forum featuring candidates for the Pomona school board will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Education Center auditorium, 800 S. Garey Ave., Pomona.

The event is co-sponsored by the Associated Pomona Teachers (APT), the League of Women Voters and the Pomona Parent Teachers Assoc.

Janet Hoxsey will be the moderator for the evening.

Coffee meetings for candidate

Two coffee meetings have been scheduled for Walnut Valley school board candidate Robert Kunbert Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Tuesday coffee will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Don Stokes' residence, 2416 Sunbright Dr., Diamond Bar.

The second will be held Wednesday at the Ken Kirks' residence, 1667 S. Cypress Grove, Diamond Bar also at 7:30 p.m.

Kunbert is a deputy district attorney for Los Angeles County assigned to the Pomona courts. For information on his campaign, those interested may call 596-1201.

Valley crime

Slaying suspect gives up

An Upland man sought in connection with the shotgun slaying of two men Saturday in Cucamonga has surrendered to West End sheriff's deputies and a Montclair police officer.

The suspect, Michael Olivas Serrano, 21, 1368 1/2 E. Ninth St., was booked in the West End sheriff's jail on suspicion of two counts of murder.

The slaying victims, Joe Hernandez, 55, and Ralph Rodriguez, 28, were fatally shot Saturday about 5:30 p.m. near 24th Street and Center Avenue.

Investigators said it was believed that Serrano and Hernandez began to argue and Rodriguez stepped between the two and managed to break up a fight.

Serrano was reported to have gone to his car where he got a shotgun and then fired at least six shots at the victims, deputies reported.

Hernandez was struck by four shotgun blasts and Rodriguez by one. Both victims were taken to San Antonio Community Hospital where they died a short time later.

Early Sunday, Serrano contacted Montclair Police Sgt. Robert Metzger and said he wanted to surrender, said deputies.

Metzger was called because Serrano is a distant relative of Mrs. Metzger, officers explained. Metzger arranged for Serrano to surrender to sheriff's deputies. Investigators said the fight between Serrano and the two victims was a family problem and could be likened to the "Hatfields and McCoy's" family dispute.

San Bernardino County sheriff's homicide detectives said they have not determined what prompted the fatal argument.

Serrano remained in the Ontario jail today without bail, pending arraignment in the West Valley Municipal Court.

Stabbing suspects sought

West End Sheriff's deputies this morning continued their search for a group of Ontario youths suspected of stabbing and seriously injuring three Cucamonga youths in a gang fight in the Cucamonga area on Saturday morning.

According to deputies, the three victims, Marco Serrano Mirelez, 8750 London St.; Jerry Angel Hernandez, 9776 Main St.; and Peter Serna, 10365 24th St., all of Cucamonga, suffered multiple stab wounds in the gang fight that apparently broke out about 1 a.m. at Main and Reid streets.

Mirelez, who suffered a lacerated kidney and punctured lung, and Hernandez who suffered stab wounds of the chest and left arm, were both listed in improved condition this morning at San Bernardino County Hospital. Serna was treated at the hospital and later released.

The victims told deputies that two car-loads of youths believed to be from an Ontario gang drove into the Cucamonga area and became engaged in a street fight with other local youths.

Trio jailed in burglary

An 18-year-old Upland man and two juveniles were arrested Sunday night after a resident reported seeing a man crawl through the window of the Second Avenue Market at 197 S. Second Ave. in Upland, police reported.

Donald Perry Pocock of 617 E. Raymond St. was arrested by Upland police officers Curtis Smalling and Martin Thounenl responding to the call about 11:45 p.m. The officers said they found the window of the store open and crawled inside. Inside the store, they said they found the suspect hiding in a storage room and placed him under arrest. The officers said they found a moderate amount of cash on the suspect that was believed taken from the safe.

A few minutes later other officers in the area arrested two youths, ages 15 and 17, in the area who were believed to be the lookouts.

Pocock and the youths were booked in the West End jail for investigation of burglary. The youths are to be turned over to juvenile authorities for disposition.

Boy slugged; sister raped

An 8-year-old Pomona boy was reported in satisfactory condition today in Pomona Valley Community Hospital after having been hit on the head by a youth who allegedly attacked his sister.

The boy suffered the injury when he was slugged with a hammer in his own bedroom early Sunday morning. His 13-year-old brother also was injured by the older youth who broke into their bedroom through a window, police reported.

After getting inside the house, the intruder dragged the boys' 12-year-old sister outside and raped her, officers said.

All three victims were taken to the hospital for treatment, but only the 8-year-old was admitted.

A WORN OUT BROOM . . . CANNOT SWEEP POMONA CLEAN! DO NOTHING ATTITUDE . . .

Constant bickering, politicking & a "do nothing" attitude, these past 8 years. Empty promises just before Elections. While people & business move out & surrounding areas prosper. Resulting in for Pomona, Government must start reflecting the mood of the taxpayer, so let's form a Citizens Police Commission to receive all complaints and take corrective measures NOW.

Let's check our judges track records, if they make it easy on the criminals, let's make it hard for them to be re-elected.

JOBS and TAXES . . .

Ask owners to remove empty and deteriorating buildings. Alert developers, giving them the opportunity to be the FIRST to build individual and enclosed heritage villages, called Fun & Merchandise Plaza's.

HALF MEASURES WILL AVAIL US NOTHING!

S.D. Zoo's guide dog ban valid

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Guide dogs still won't be allowed inside the San Diego Zoo.

Superior Court Judge Jack R. Levitt rejected the plea of a 35-year-old El Cajon blind woman on Wednesday.

"Many places in the zoo present a danger, such as the lion enclosures, and guide dogs have no discerning ability," Levitt said.

The zoo has a written policy banning animals from the outside but provides personal guides for the blind and accommodations for guide dogs to wait.

ATTENTION!

ALL FICTITIOUS BUSINESS NAME STATEMENTS FILED IN 1972 MUST BE REFILED IN 1977

(if the business is still operating)

AND ALSO

those with changes must be republished at the time of refiling

HERE IS THE LAW — (Business and Professions Code)

Sec. 17917

(c) Where a new statement is required because the prior statement has expired under subdivision (a) of Section 17920, the new statement need not be published unless there has been a change in the information required in the expired statement.

Sec. 17920

(a) Unless the statement expires earlier under subdivision (b) or (c), a fictitious business name statement expires at the end of five years from December 31 of the year in which it was filed in the office of the county clerk.

Sec. 17917

(b) Subject to the requirements of subdivision (a), the newspaper selected for the publication of the statement should be one that circulates in the area where the business is to be conducted.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON THE FIVE-YEAR FICTITIOUS NAME LAW

- QUESTION: When do new requirements in the Fictitious Name Law go into effect?
ANSWER: Beginning January 1, 1977, all statements filed during 1972 must be refilled with the County Clerk.
- QUESTION: Who must file the required new statement of doing business under a fictitious name?
ANSWER: All individuals, partnerships, trusts, corporations and associations which operate under names not their own must refile.
- QUESTION: Is there a statutory fee for refiling?
ANSWER: Yes, by law the County Clerk must charge $10.00.
- QUESTION: Will 1972 registrants receive notification that they must refile in 1977?
ANSWER: Yes, the law requires the County Clerk to give such notice at least two months before the end of the year 1977. In Los Angeles County, where some 35,000 statements were filed and published in 1972, notification will begin to go to registrants in January, 1977, when all those who registered in January, February or March, 1972, will receive notice with the offer of forms for refiling. In April, similarly, those who filed in April, May or June, 1972, will be notified and in July those who filed in July, August or September, 1972; and in December those who filed in October, November and December, 1972.
- QUESTION: Must statements when refilled be republished?
ANSWER: Yes, if there has been any change in the statement as originally filed in 1972.
- QUESTION: What is a Fictitious Firm Name?
ANSWER: One that does not include the surname of the operator, or one that implies the ownership participation of others such as "Brothers", "Sons", "Associates", "Company"; or if a corporation owner, a name different from that registered in the Articles of Incorporation.
- QUESTION: What is the purpose of the fictitious name procedure?
ANSWER: The requirements have been in effect in California since 1872 and are designed to protect the consumer by enabling him to identify the person or persons with whom he is really dealing.
- QUESTION: Must all firms presently doing business under fictitious names file new statements?
ANSWER: Yes, all must refile under new code sections of the Business and Professions Code, 17900-17930 and also Sections 7540 and 101595 and Section 10522.5 of the Business and Professions Code.
- QUESTION: Is it true that a mere change in the residence address of an individual or general partner doing business under a registered fictitious name excuses the party at the five year refiling interval from meeting the publication provision which requires a new publication "if there has been a change of information in the expired statement"?
ANSWER: The wording, "change in the residence address" in Section 17920 of Business and Professions Code is confusing: It has reference only to the statutory expiration of any Fictitious Business Name Statement "40 days after any change in the facts." Changes in residence address are specifically exempted from the changes which invalidate a fictitious name filing. The requirements for publication with "any change in the information" is in Section 17917 of the Business and Professions Code. It is not related to the exemption in Section 17920. It has been held that change in any residential address, as well as business address, is a "change in information" and will therefore require republication upon renewal at the end of any five year renewal period.

- QUESTION: Must statements filed in 1973 be refilled in 1978, those filed in 1974 in 1979, and so on?
ANSWER: Yes, statements must be refilled every five years.
- QUESTION: What is the penalty for failure to file and publish?
ANSWER: One penalty will be inability to entertain a court action until the law has been complied with. In addition, most banks demand evidence of filing and publication prior to opening an account under a fictitious name.
- QUESTION: On a first filing must there be a newspaper publication?
ANSWER: Yes, the refiling law does not excuse first filers from meeting the statutory publishing requirements.
- QUESTION: Where are the printed forms to be obtained for this filing and publication procedure?
ANSWER: Free forms and service are available at this newspaper office or at any office of the County Clerk.
- QUESTION: What is the cost of filing and publication?
ANSWER: Statutory filing fee for the Fictitious Name Statement, either new or refilled, inclusive of mandatory certification of a copy by the County Clerk, is $10.00. Publication charge for the four insertions of the notice is determined by the newspaper.
- QUESTION: Can two fictitious name businesses operating under different names of the same address and owned by the same person or persons be filed and published under a single statement?
ANSWER: Yes, more than one business name can be listed on the single statement provided all have the same address of business. Each separate business is to be indicated.
- QUESTION: After January 1, 1977, will all new filings require publication?
ANSWER: All new filings will require publication.
- QUESTION: Precisely what is the process for publishing?
ANSWER: Publication must be made once a week for four weeks in a qualified newspaper circulating in the area of the affected business. Publication must be commenced within 30 days after filing. A proof of publication must be filed with the County Clerk within 30 days after completion of publication.
- QUESTION: What other values do registrants gain through publication of Fictitious Firm Name?
ANSWER: Evidential proof of priority is established in the event competitors later use or file under the same name. Also, there is direct advertising value for the firm through multiple insertions of name and address of the business, it being noted that newspaper frequently print such names in black face type in capital letters, separately spaced.

Lakers outlook not as rosy now

When Kermit Washington was injured, the NBA Pacific Division race took on a different appearance.

The Lakers have played only two games since then so it's difficult to make a judgement.

In one, against lowly Atlanta at home, they looked terrible. But they were coming off a week's layoff. In the other, against Washington on the road, they looked great. But the Bullets were a tired ball club.

It's hard to figure out. Whatever, the development of Washington was the big difference between this year and those pathetic teams of the last two seasons.

The Lakers this year were a very delicately balanced piece of machinery. Now that balance has been upset. Washington was a ferocious rebounder and an improving scorer.

No other Laker forward has shown that he can both score and rebound although Tom Abernathy looks like a better bet than the rest.

Cazzie Russell is averaging 3.4 boards a game. Don Ford is averaging 3.9 and Abernathy 3.4 boards. Washington was good for nearly 10 points and 10 rebounds per game.

He also provided a lot of muscle on defense.

Jerry West has been very successful using a lot of players this year. But without Washington, the pieces, so far at least, no longer fit.

Marv Roberts, the 6-8 ABA refugee looked very timid in his debut as sixth man. But Marv had played only 75 minutes in the whole season prior to Friday night.

Ford on the spot

Ford will feel much of the pressure now. He was always the first starter to be replaced when Washington was healthy. Now he'll have to produce more or possibly lose his starting job.

The Lakers just can't afford to stick with a 6-9 forward that neither scores much (7.1 average) or rebounds well.

AROUND THE NBA — Golden State appears ready to make a strong bid. Rick Barry is shooting more which means he's scoring more.

The trade of George Johnson settled the Warriors' center position. The Golden State got hot after the trade. Rookie Robert Parrish (Centenary) and veteran Clifford Ray compliment each other well.

Cleveland has been having its problems especially since the injury which sidelined Nate Thurmond for the season. Since obtaining Thurmond (from Chicago in 1975) the Cavs have won 60 percent of their games.

With Thurmond out, former Laker Elmore Smith will play more. Cleveland coach Bill Fitch is apparently very high on Smith who flopped with the Lakers and Milwaukee Bucks.

When Smith arrived in Cleveland, he was astonished to find that the Cavaliers had an entire film just on him. "We're going to teach you to play this game," Fitch reportedly told Elmore. No one ever worked that much with Elmore before.

Bill Russell shaky?

One also wonders about the recent announcement by Seattle owner Sam Schulman that he can "no longer afford Bill Russell as both coach and general manager."

The Sonics have set club attendance records for the last three years. Even the sale of Spencer Haywood didn't keep the faithful away.

HERE 'N THERE — Where is former Notre Dame coach Johnny Dee now? Dee, who is now 52, is serving his second year as Denver's City Auditor.

With basketball beginning to wind down, baseball is heating up. The Angels open spring training in Holtville Thursday and the Dodgers depart for Very Beach soon after.

The Dodgers "roast" at the Friars' club last week was a show of some of the sharpest tongues in the west. Hardly any of the better known avoided being cut up in little pieces as laughs filled the air.

Walter O'Malley was referred to as "a legend in his own mind." Walter Alston was called, "a quiet and humble man... and just as boring off the field."

O'Malley proved a pretty sharp man with the words himself. "When I came out here to Los Angeles, I welcomed a chance to meet a millionaire," O'Malley recalled. "Now all I have to do is turn around and look at all these guys (players) behind me." O'Malley also jabbed new manager Tommy Lasorda but good.

"Lasorda is not off to a very good start for a guy with only a one-year contract," O'Malley kidded. "He lost to USC. He better beat the Angels and the Reds. He's not in a very secure position anyway. He's the lowest paid guy in uniform on the club."

Newcomers dominating golf

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's a growing cadre of bright young men who are giving golf a new look—perhaps even a new spelling.

In the last 13 months, 12 players have scored their initial tour victories. The "z's" are very prominent.

It started in the team championship, the last event of the 1976 season, when rookie Bill Kratzert was the key figure in a triumph with Woody Blackburn.

This year Bruce Lietzke dominated things, winning two events, finishing second and fourth in others and collecting $123,000 before he had to skip a week because of the illness of his father.

With him out, Tom Purtzer and Fuzzy Zoeller moved to the fore. Purtzer sinking a critical, par-saving putt on the 72nd hole Sunday for a one-stroke victory over Lanny Wadkins in the $200,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open.

As an indication of the change in the game, Purtzer's first tour triumph lowered to 25.4 the average age of the winners this season and marked the first time since 1970 that the tour had finished its western swing without Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer or Johnny Miller winning at least one event.

They didn't even come close. They had no top 10 finishes. Miller and Palmer missed the cut for the final 36 holes more often than they made it. Nicklaus played only twice and missed once. The rest of the game's more established players suffered similar fates.

And while the names that have dominated the game so long were suffering and struggling, such players as Lietzke and Purtzer, along with Fuzzy Zoeller (third in this tournament) and Bobby Walzel (winner of $18,103 in the west) were moving into prominence.

"The competition has become so strong, so many good players are joining the tour every year, you have to figure that every man in the field has a chance to win," said Rik Massengale a winner two weeks ago.

Purtzer proved the point.

An obscure, non-winning longshot, he had to survive the rigors of the Monday morning qualifying round even to gain a spot in the tournament field with such names as Palmer, Billy Casper, Gary Player and Tom Watson—all of whom missed the cut for the final two rounds.

Purtzer prevailed with a gritty, hard-won, one-over-par 72 in the last round over the 7,029 yards that make up the famed old Riviera Country Club course. He finished with a 273 total, 11 under par.

Purtzer, 25, an Arizona State product and another of the tour's weekly Bible-study group, played erratically over the last round, blew a threeshot lead, trailed, was tied, led, blew that lead then had to scramble out of trees and deep rough in a hanging lie for the par on the 18th that won it. He finished it off with a five-foot putt while Lanny Wadkins watched from the sidelines, waiting for Purtzer to miss and set up a playoff.

It didn't happen. Purtzer rammed the putt into the back of the cup and was a winner.

"I was awful nervous," Purtzer said, "but when I got over that last putt, all the nervousness went away."

"It may be the most important thing that has happened to me. I always thought I could win, but you never know for sure until you do it."

"I thought I could win, but I thought I'd do it coming from behind. In a way, I guess that's what I did."

Wadkins, now apparently a winner over the deep slump that has plagued him since surgery two years ago, had a lastround 70 and a 274 total.

"A bland round," he said. "I just couldn't get the putts I needed."

Zoeller closed with a spectacular, six-under-par 65 and was third at 276. Craig Stadler was next at 70-277, followed by Graham Marsh and Bob Gilder. Purtzer's roommate in their college days, at 278. Marsh had a last round 68, Gilder a 72.

Evert convinces doubters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If there were any doubters about Chris Evert's domination of women's tennis, they should be believers by now.

The winner of Sunday's Los Angeles tournament now has whipped the only player currently on the tour who was conceding a chance against her—Martina Navratilova.

Miss Navratilova, who upset Miss Evert at the start of the women's tour in Washington, D.C., handing her the only loss this year, fell in the Los Angeles final 6-2, 2-6, 6-1. For the year, Miss Evert has won two of three matches against Miss Navratilova.

Teamed with doubles specialist Betty Stove, Miss Navratilova also lost in doubles, bowing to Miss Evert and Rosemary Casals 6-2, 6-4.

Miss Evert said apparently the only thing that can keep her from winning is complacency.

After earning a total of $22,600 Sunday, she said, "I need more matches like that," referring to her three-set battle with the Czechoslovakian defector. "When I'm winning easily I'm not getting mentally tough, because I feel I don't have to be mentally tough to win my first couple of rounds."

For that reason, Miss Evert claims that she misses Evonne Goolagong on the tour this year.

"Every tournament that we played, we both got psyched up," Miss Evert said, "and we both had to be mentally tough during the whole match."

Miss Goolagong, now Mrs. Roger Cawley, is in Australia awaiting the birth of her first child.

As for Sunday's singles final, Miss Evert said that her easy matches earlier in the week detracted from the concentration she needed against Miss Navratilova.

"The first set I was really concentrating well," she said. "I was surprised how easily I won the first set. Usually I have to struggle to beat Martina."

"I got overconfident in the second set and then let the first games slip away. And then I got discouraged."

Confidence soon returned, as Miss Evert concentrated on her effective blasting return of service in the third set. It may have contributed to many of Miss Navratilova's errors, as she consistently wallowed the ball far past the end line.

Meanwhile, Miss Navratilova "just wanted to get off the court" in the third set, having convinced herself, she said, that nothing she could do would rattle her opponent.

She already had hurt herself with a poor performance in the first set, a situation she attributed to lack of sleep because of a late match the previous night.

Lakers' 'zone' defeats Bullets

LANDOVER, Md. (AP)—Kareem Abdul-Jabbar managed to haul down only six rebounds, but it was hardly a wasted game for the 7-foot-2 giant.

The Los Angeles center scored 35 points, handed off four assists and was his usual intimidating self on defense while leading the Lakers to a 108-101 victory over the Washington Bullets Sunday.

"He makes everybody 30 per cent better," Lucius Allen said admiringly of his longtime teammate at UCLA and in the NBA. "On defense, we can press because we know he's back there protecting."

Coach Dick Motta of Washington used a different description of Abdul Jabbar's protective qualities, saying Los Angeles "plays the best zone in the league."

With the Lakers ahead 37-22 in the second quarter, they were warned about using the zone which is illegal in the NBA. That's as far as it went, but Motta didn't blame the officials.

"We didn't run the plays designed to work best against the zone," he said. "We played into their hands with 18 turnovers in the first half, forcing the ball against a team that doesn't put that much pressure on you."

Both Motta and Coach Jerry West of the Lakers conceded the Bullets may have been a bit tired while playing for the fifth time in six days, including two games within 20 hours.

"That definitely had to hurt them—they looked tired—but we couldn't have played any better," West said of the Lakers, who were in only their second game in nine days.

"I think we must have been mentally tired, the way we played the first half," Motta said. "We came back, but we met a good team at the wrong time."

The Lakers, who have beaten Washington three straight without a loss this season, lead the Pacific Division by two games over Portland despite a recent mild slump which included their first loss at home in 22 games.

Los Angeles also has been hampered by the loss of Kermit Washington, the team's No. 2 rebounder who is out for the season with a torn knee tendon. So, Allen figured the victory over the Bullets was timely.

"It was important to get off the 'snide,' especially in the first game of a road trip," said the guard who had 22 points, six assists and four steals.

Only two home games

Eight valley teams make CIF

Eight valley basketball teams have received CIF playoff berths, but only two of them will open postseason play with home games.

San Antonio League champion Ganesha High (23-4) and Hacienda League titlist Alta Loma (23-4) will both open at home by virtue of winning their league championships.

Damien and Garey from the SAL, Walnut and Ontario from the Hacienda League, Ontario Christian from the Olympic League and American Christian from the Christian League will all hit the road Friday.

Ganesha will host Brea-Olinda (17-9), the third-place team from the Orange League. Alta Loma will entertain Mayfair, Mayfair (14-11), the Suburban League's No. 3 squad. SAL runnerup Damien (13-10) will visit Sunny Hills (17-7), which tied for second place in the Freeway League and Garey will travel to top seed La Habra (22-3), the Orange League champion and the team that eliminated the Vikings from the basketball playoffs last year.

Walnut (16-9) will be at Leuzinger (12-13), Pioneer League co-runnerup, and Ontario (8-18) will visit Paramount (15-7), the No. 2 team from the Suburban League.

Olympic League runnerup Ontario Christian (18-6) will go to Riverside to meet Arrowhead League champion Notre Dame (19-4), which nipped the Knights, 53-51, when they played a non-league game earlier in the season.

American Christian (14-9), the Christian League's second-place team, will visit Academy League champ Huntington Valley Christian (16-4).

All playoff games will begin at 8 p.m. Friday unless the home team makes other arrangements.

19th horse to pass the $1 million mark.

"He probably was at his best two years ago," said trainer Keith Stucki. "But he's still a very good horse and he'll be better in two weeks."

Ancient Title suffered a leg injury in the Hollywood Gold Cup last year, and Stucki has brought him back slowly. He would not let veterinarians fire the injured leg, a treatment of inserting red-hot points through the skin over the area involved. Instead, Stucki massaged the leg, and Ancient Title proved the benefit of that treatment.

The crowd of 48,310 installed Ancient Title the favorite, and he returned $7.60, $5.60 and $4. Double Discount paid $11.80 and $5.80, while Properantes finished third, another 1 3/4 lengths behind, and paid $3.60.

Ancient Title carried 119 pounds, four less than highweighted Riot in Paris who finished ninth. Double Discount got in with 115 and Properantes with 114.

Apprentice jockey Steve Cauthen, who flew from New York to ride in Sunday's program, finished last in the feature aboard Sharif, but he won one race, increasing his 1977 winning total to 114. The 16-year-old also had one second and three thirds. He rode only six races.

Finishing behind the three leaders in the San Antonio were Kirby Lane, the winner of the $135,900 Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds, Pisistrato, Featherfoot, Distant Land, Uniformity, Riot in Paris and Sharif.

Phil Ford gives Tar Heels a lift in ACC

By The Associated Press
Road games in the Atlantic Coast Conference take a lot out of coaches. It's a good thing that North Carolina's Dean Smith has a Ford to give him a lift.

Phil Ford, one of the slickest, quickest guards in the country, helped accelerate North Carolina into a big halftime lead, then put a stop sign on Virginia Sunday.

The result was a tenuous 66-64 college basketball victory for the 13th-ranked Tar Heels.

"We did not tell our players to go to Ford especially," said Smith. "It's just a tendency for players to do that."

Ford scored 16 of his 21 points in the first half to stake the Tar Heels to a 36-24 advantage. Later, he drove the Cavaliers to distraction by operating Smith's famous "Four Corner" offense that aborted a Virginia rally.

Mike O'Koren also gave the North Carolina machine a push at the end, scoring 10 of the Tar Heels' last 13 points.

"Virginia's second-half comeback was because they had better movement, hit a couple of shots and got confidence in their shooting," said Smith.

"We didn't play great. But we won by two on the road—that's enough."

"Our first half wasn't very pretty—no movement and we didn't get the ball to people in scoring position," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "In the second half, we moved the ball better, people moved better. Consequently, we were in better position to score. We felt we could get the ball inside, but we didn't change sides with the ball enough, which let Carolina jam up things inside."

In another major game Sunday, Purdue defeated Indiana 86-78 in the Big Ten.

Sunday's regionally-televized games followed a rash of upsets Saturday. In the worst day of the season collectively for nationally-ranked teams, nine of The AP's Top 20 suffered upsets.

Oregon stunned No. 3 UCLA 64-55; No. 4 Alabama was beaten by No. 14 Tennessee 92-89; No. 7 Wake Forest lost to Virginia Tech 98-97 in overtime; Memphis State defeated No. 8 Louisville 87-77; ninth-ranked Marquette was surprised by Wichita State 75-64; Rutgers shocked No. 10 Cincinnati 89-70; Duquesne nipped No. 15 Detroit 95-88 in double overtime; Utah whipped 17th-ranked Arizona 76-61 and Appalachian State tripped No. 19 VMI 62-58.

Elsewhere, top-ranked San Francisco beat Pepperdine 81-73; No. 2 Kentucky trimmed LSU 90-76; No. 5 Michigan turned back No. 12 Minnesota 89-70; No. 6 Nevada-Las Vegas whipped Portland State 112-96; No. 11 Arkansas stopped Texas 73-61; No. 18 Clemson defeated North Carolina State 68-66 and No. 20 Syracuse walloped St. John's 79-55.

Eugene Parker's 18 points paced a balanced attack that carried Purdue past Indiana. The Hoosiers, who have had several players walk off the team this year, were further troubled by the injury of center Kent Benson. The All-America player injured his back late in Sunday's game and may be lost to Indiana for the rest of the season.

"Purdue scored well, they shot well," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "They got some buckets they worked like hell to get. We worked and scrapped for 20 minutes to get a one-point lead, and in the first minute of the second half, they got a three-point lead on us."

The victory kept Purdue's hopes alive in the Big Ten race.

"We have four games remaining," said Coach Fred Schaus, "and I feel we're capable of winning all four of them to assure ourselves of at least a tie for the Big Ten championship."

One of those games will be Thursday night at Minnesota, another contender. Said a highly optimistic Schaus: "The race will go right down to that last game (vs. conference leader Michigan) March 5, but we just have to think about Minnesota. We can't afford to look past anyone."

Jack Givens got 21 points and 12 rebounds to pace Kentucky over LSU.

Injury stops Connors' bid

By The Associated Press

Jimmy Connors is usually good enough to beat most tennis players on one leg.

But he wasn't Sunday.

The generally recognized international king of tennis suffered a torn knee muscle in the final of a World Championship Tennis Tournament at Toronto and as a result, had to concede his match against Dick Stockton.

"I really wanted to continue playing," said Stockton, "but I could see that Jimmy was in a lot of pain. Up to that point, I was playing well and I thought I could have won the match."

"But I didn't want it to end this way. I'd have rather lost than to win this way."

A WCT spokesman said Connors suffered a tear in the vestus medialis muscle in his left knee and will be sidelined for at least two weeks.

"Jimmy appeared to hurt the knee on an approach shot in the 10th game of the first set," said WCT spokesman Bob Yates. "It's all puffed up right now and WCT doctor Jim Short said he'll be out for a couple of weeks. He'll have the knee examined again by his own doctor when he gets home."

Connors, of Belleville, Ill., was leading the match when Stockton broke him in the 10th game of the first set, tying the score 5-5. By the end of the game, Connors was limping noticeably and had cut down on his running.

Connors then broke back for a 6-5 lead, but before the 12th game started, he took a 5-minute injury timeout as allowed by WCT rules. He returned after a 10-minute delay, hobbling to the service line, then took a 40-30 lead before deciding to default the match, allowing his opponent from Dallas to win the $30,000 first prize. At that time, Connors was one point away from winning the opening set.

At San Jose, Calif., eighth-seeded Sandy Mayer of Palo Alto, Calif., beat 40-year-old Australian Roy Emerson 6-2, 6-4 in semifinal action at the $50,000 Grand Prix Tennis Tournament. Mayer earned a shot in tonight's final against Jiri Hrebec of Czechoslovakia, who won his final berth with a 6-1, 6-4 victory over 1975 NCAA champion Billy Martin of Palos Verdes, Calif.

Mary Struthers of La Jolla, Calif., defeated top-seeded Laura DuPont of Matthews, N.C., 6-2, 6-0 and won the $2,800 top prize in an international tennis tournament for young players at Norcross, Ga.

Third-seeded Matt Mitchell of Palo Alto, Calif., won the men's singles title and Barbara Hallquist of Arcadia, Calif., won the women's singles crown in the U.S. Tennis Association national amateur indoor championships at Salisbury, Md. Mitchell defeated Jai DiLouie of Dallas 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, and Miss Hallquist beat Anne Smith, also of Dallas, 1-6, 7-6, 6-2.

Leafs score in clusters

By The Associated Press

The Toronto Maple Leafs have been scoring goals in clusters lately. They scored 10 against the Washington Capitals nine days ago, and reached that total again Sunday night, beating the Chicago Black Hawks 10-8.

It was just an average hockey game: nine goals in the third period—four within 1 minute, 36 seconds—five ties, four major fighting penalties and a gross misconduct penalty.

The Maple Leafs, completing a stretch of seven games in nine days, closed out the string with a flourish. Errol Thompson scored three goals, while George Ferguson and Lanny McDonald each had two, leading Toronto's triumph in the wacky contest.

"If I knew what would make the game deteriorate like this, or why, I could make a lot of money," said Chicago Coach Bill White after goalie Gilles Villeneuve was strafed for the 10 goals on 38 shots. "Our defense was shoddy at best."

"In all my years in the National Hockey League, and that's 30 years, I have never seen a game like this," said Maple Leafs Coach Red Kelly. "Fortunately, though, we had the last shot and we won the game."

"We've played seven games in nine nights, five of them on the road, and I think our guys were a little on the weary side," Kelly continued.

They were not too tired to score five times in the nine-goal third period which decided the contest. Defenseman Ian Turnbull, who earlier this season scored five goals in one game, closed out the scoring with 32 seconds remaining—skimming a 160-foot shot into the empty Chicago net.

"It was a real defensive battle out there," Turnbull said with a smile. "You just can't explain the kind of game it was."

In the other NHL games Sunday, the Philadelphia Flyers downed the Buffalo Sabres 4-2, the Pittsburgh Penguins beat the staggering Cleveland Barons 4-1, the New York Rangers trimmed the Detroit Red Wings 3-2, the Washington Capitals and New York Islanders tied 2-2, and the Colorado Rockies beat the Minnesota North Stars 3-2.

Flyers 4, Sabres 2

The Sabres saw one streak continue and two streaks end against the Flyers. The ones that ended were a six-game winning string and five consecutive unbeaten performances by rookie goaltender Don Edwards.

But, all things considered, the loss came as no surprise, since the game was played at the Spectrum in Philadelphia where the Sabres, who entered the league in 1970, have not won in 17 games there.

"I would feel bad about it if other teams were coming in here and winning regularly," said Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith. "But off the past record, I'd say nobody comes in here and wins a lot."

Defenseman Andre Dupont scored twice and Tom Bladon once during a first-period spurt which wiped out a 2-0 Buffalo lead built on goals by Jim Lorentz and Rene Robert.

Dupont wiped out that lead with a 50-footer at 11:44, then with a blue line shot at 18:40 of the period when Buffalo had two men in the penalty box.

Don Saleski completed the scoring in the second period.

Penguins 4, Barons 1

Ron Schock scored a goal and set up another, carrying Pittsburgh past Cleveland in what may have been the Barons' last game. The team may strike Tuesday if its owner does not come up with all due back pay.

Rangers 3, Red Wings 2

Phil Esposito celebrated his 35th birthday with two goals, including the game-winner, and defenseman Mike McEwen added three assists, leading the Rangers past Detroit. New York survived a third-period scare when, with the score tied, a deflected Detroit shot bounced off both goalposts in the Rangers' net.

Islanders 2, Capitals 2

Third-period goals by Hartland Monahan and Jack Lynch lifted Washington to a comeback tie against the Islanders. Clark Gillies tallied twice for the Islanders.

Rockies 3, North Stars 2

Colorado's victory increased its lead over Minnesota to five points in the battle for the final playoff spot in the Smythe Division. The Rockies built a 3-1 lead through two periods, then withstood a furious North Stars' rally after Roland Eriksson scored a fluke goal with 2:27 remaining.

76ers not dead with Doctor around

By the Associated Press

A message for Philadelphia basketball fans: when there is a Doctor in the house, the patient is not dead until the final buzzer.

The Philadelphia 76ers trailed 89-65 with 22 seconds left in the third period and by 13 with just 3:19 remaining in Sunday's game against Cleveland. Some fans at the Spectrum in Philadelphia gave up.

"A lot of people left with two minutes to go," said Julius Erving, the marvelous Dr. J. "I noticed that. They'll be surprised when they read tomorrow that we won."

The 76ers, with Erving scoring 13 of his 34 points in the fourth quarter, came back and won on a pair of free throws by Lloyd Free with 18 seconds left.

Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue described the comeback as incredible, but not Erving, who scored seven of his team's last nine points.

"I've seen teams come back on us," said Erving. "So why not us? In this game, you never say die until it's over."

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, the Boston Celtics nipped the Golden State Warriors 114-112, the Denver Nuggets defeated the Atlanta Hawks 111-95, the New York Knicks beat the New York Nets 100-80, the San Antonio Spurs whipped the New Orleans Jazz 129-109, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Washington Bullets 108-101, the Detroit Pistons nipped the Phoenix Suns 109-107, and the Indiana Pacers routed the Seattle SuperSonics 135-115.

The 76ers trailed 107-95 with 2:40 remaining but outscored the Cavaliers 17-4, handing Cleveland its 19th road defeat in the last 22 games.

Free's winning free throws came after Elmore Smith was called for goaltending on a shot by Erving that made it 111-110. He had three tries, and needed the bonus shot.

"The first one thought about going in," said Free. "The second one was a brick. It went off my hands the wrong way." It missed, leaving the score tied and the pressure directly on Free.

"The third had legs on it," he said. "It just kept walking around until it fell in."

Cleveland had two late tries, but both shots bounced off the rim. A second rebound was finally tipped in, but after the buzzer.

George McGinnis added 24 points and Doug Collins 21 for Philadelphia, while Austin Carr topped Cleveland with 26.

Celtics 114, Warriors 112 Boston scored 10 straight points in the final minutes to win. John Havlicek's jumper from the corner put the Celtics in front with four minutes remaining, then Boston added four more baskets and went ahead by nine.

Golden State pulled within two 112-110 on a basket by Rick Barry, who scored 37 points in his first appearance since suffering a bruised hip in the NBA All-Star Game last Sunday. But Havlicek, who topped Boston with 24 points, then sank two free throws, clinching the victory.

Nuggets 111, Hawks 95 Denver led by just two points heading into the final period but won going away as David Thompson and Dan Issel each scored 28 points. John Drew netted 33 for Atlanta.

Knicks 100, Nets 80 The Knicks, who broke open the game with a run of 13 straight points in the second half, got 22 points and 22 rebounds from Bob McAdoo and 18 points and 15 rebounds from reserve forward Tom McMillen.

Spurs 129, Jazz 109 Coby Dietrick scored 16 of his team-high 24 points in the fourth quarter and Larry Kenon added 22 points for San Antonio, which led all the way. The Spurs were ahead by 33 points during the third quarter.

Pistons 109, Suns 107 Bob Lanier's hook shot with 16 seconds left broke a tie and gave Detroit its victory over Phoenix. Lanier, who scored 24 points, drove in against Dennis Awtry for the winning basket.

The Suns failed to tie when they were not able to work the ball in for a good shot. Ron Lee's desperation 25-footer missed with one second remaining.

Pacers 135, SuperSonics 115

Billy Knight poured in 38 points and five teammates scored in double figures as Indiana routed Seattle. The Pacers led 67-64 early in the third period before outscoring the Sonics 20-6, taking an 87-70 advantage with 3:03 left in the period, behind Knight, Wil Jones and John Williamson.

Indiana built 24-point leads twice in the fourth quarter, outgunning Seattle 44-35 in final 12 minutes.

Cornell athletes injured in accident

LENOXVILLE, Pa.

(AP) — Ten women were hospitalized Sunday night, two in serious condition, after a chartered bus carrying women's basketball and swimming teams from Cornell University skidded off snow-covered Interstate 81 and overturned in a field, police said.

Five others of the 31 on board were treated at hospitals for minor injuries and released. The accident occurred about a mile south of Exit 63 north of Scranton near this town in northeastern Pennsylvania as the teams were returning from Ivy League weekend competition in Philadelphia.

State police Sgt. Leroy Rotherford said the bus was going downhill in the northbound lane when the driver, Jonah L. Miller, of Ithaca, N.Y., hit a patch of snow and lost control. The bus crashed through a guardrail on the right side of the road and overturned in a field, he said.

The injured were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Carbondale and Binghamton General Hospital in Binghamton, N.Y.

A spokesman for St. Joseph's Hospital in Carbondale said two of the women, Eva Patterson, 21, of Wilkesburg, Pa. and Pam Stefoniak, 21, of Ava, N.Y., were in serious condition in the intensive care unit.

Others admitted to St. Joseph's in satisfactory condition were: Mrs. Mary Jane Berry, 55, Ithaca, N.Y.; Ann Berlin, Plainview, 18, N.Y.; Barbara Creamer, 19, Schenectady, N.Y.; Amy Roth, 18, Great Neck, N.Y.; Patricia Greene, 20, Ithaca, N.Y.; Priscilla Timberlake, 18, Staten Island, N.Y.; Susan Barowicz, 26, Ithaca, N.Y., and Esther Elkin, 18, Yonkers, N.Y.

All those taken to Binghamton General were treated and released, authorities said.

Pomona youngster breaks pool record

Gerrit Becker of the Pomona Swim School set a new pool record in the Boys division (six years and under) at the City of Commerce Novice Invitational meet Saturday with a time of 21.5 seconds.

Becker also set a record time in the 25-yard butterfly. He was first in the 25 yard freestyle, second in the 25-yard breaststroke and a third in the 25-yard backstroke.

Tricia Cuihe placed third in the 25-yard butterfly and third in the 25-yard breaststroke. She placed fourth in the 25-yard backstroke and sixth in the 25-yard breaststroke.

Aaron Becker won a third in the 25-yard butterfly and Kim Jackson placed sixth in the 25-yard freestyle event.

The Pomona school's relay team (six and under) won the event with its team of Jackson, Becker (breaststroke), Cuihe (butterfly), and A. Becker (freestyle).

In the fifteen and older bracket, Judy McConnell won the 50-yard butterfly. She also finished sixth in the 50-yard freestyle.

Sex offenders loosed; new law draws official ire

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

A new California law that prohibits a court from keeping mentally disordered sex offenders in state hospitals for an unlimited time has drawn mixed comments from a local judge, deputy district attorney, and defense attorneys.

The issue was initially raised locally by West Valley Superior Court Judge Clifton Allen who called the law "idiotic" after he had to release an admitted mentally disordered sex offender from Patton State Hospital.

The judge said the law left the court with no discretion in the matter, even if it was obvious the offender had not been rehabilitated during his hospital stay.

The law, passed last year by the California Legislature, amended the Welfare and Institution Code to prohibit an offender from being kept in a state hospital longer than he would have served in county jail or prison for the offense.

"We are returning seriously mentally disordered people into the community who are, in fact, a danger. There is absolutely no discretion left to the judge in the matter," charged Allen.

Regarding the mentally disordered sex offender he released, Allen said, "I would never had released this defendant under any other circumstances."

He was supported by Deputy Dist. Atty. Wayne Gomez, who prosecuted the case. "I have to agree with the judge. There seems to be no other way out. Nobody is saying the guy is crazy, but the question is of his competency."

Gomez believes the law may have to be reviewed by the California Supreme Court this year.

But Darrell Moore, the defendant's attorney, believes Allen's judgement on his client was "harsh."

The court has not asked for any documents from Patton State Hospital giving a profile of the defendant's progress while at the state hospital, he said. Moore reported he did have letters from the hospital staff members about his client.

In the plea bargain made by his client, the deputy district attorney prosecuting the case agreed the defendant had only annoyed the two teen-age girls and in no way molested them, he added.

"After all, he was sentenced for a misdemeanor. It's not like he was a maniac who brutally attacks, molests and rapes little girls."

How the law relates to felonious sex offenses is another matter and when the determinant sentencing takes effect next July, there could be a problem, said

Moore.

"Maybe the new law is premature in regards to felony mentally disordered sex offenders," he said. "The court may be right in saying there should have been an escape valve in the law first. Now there seems to be no way out for the court. It is a mandate."

West Valley Deputy Public Defender Charles Kays, however, indicated the courts may still have a method to recommit a sex offender through provisions of the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act.

That act, passed last year, provides a means where various seriously mentally disturbed persons or drug addicts may be recommitted to state institutions through a conservators petition or hearing.

While the act deals with more serious offenders and drug addicts, Kays believes it would apply to the mentally disordered sex offenders.

In the more serious cases, if the court or prosecutor believes a defendant — even though scheduled for release — is still so "gravely disabled" that he could be a danger to himself or others in the community, a conservators petition could be sought.

To recommit the offender, the court or prosecutor must show evidence and present acceptable testimony from experts that the defendant is "gravely disabled." The defendant, however, has the right to ask for a jury trial in the petition.

"The law recognizes that people who are gravely disabled can be recommitted under the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act. Thus, if a court believes an individual is such a danger to himself or to the health and safety of others, he could be referred to the appropriate Superior Court department and direct that a conservators petition be filed to determine if the individual is gravely disabled."

"As one can see, there may be a substantial gap between whether the individual is still a danger to the health and safety within a mentally disordered sex offender context or whether the individual is gravely disabled."

"If, under the petition there is some question whether or not the individual is gravely disabled, he is entitled to a hearing on the matter with a jury trial if requested, to make the final decision. He may be recommitted if the findings are that he is gravely disabled."

"The kernel of the situation is the required accountability of state institutions to the people through the medium of the jury trial and the aid of counsel and confrontation of witnesses," said Kays.

But fair attendance declined

Banner year set for use of fairgrounds in Pomona

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Nearly two million persons went through the gates of the Los Angeles County Fairground at Pomona during 1976, fair association secretary-manager Phil D. Shepherd has reported to the association at its annual meeting.

Although the 49th fair attracted 1,116,741 visitors during its 17-day run, a decrease of 19,111 over 1975, the association enjoyed a banner year in its civic recreational use of the grounds.

An estimated 796,000 persons, 16,084 above a 1975 figure, used the fairground facilities when the fair was not in session.

The largest attendance attraction for interim use was the Winter-nationals with 80,000 patrons for the four-day event.

"We feel quite disappointed," Shepherd said, "that we did not have a record year in 1976 as far as fair attendance is concerned. We had an excellent fair, and people really wanted to come out, but the overcast weather was against us."

Shepherd explained that the fair office received thousands of phone calls from persons asking if it was raining in Pomona because it was pouring where they were.

The overcast burned away on the final two days of the fair, and attendance increased nearly 34,000 over the preceding year.

The last day of the fair attracted an attendance just 507 persons short of the all time record for that day.

Shepherd noted that the City of Pomona last year imposed a 10 per cent admission tax, "which no doubt had some influence on our attendance. We were forced to increase the admission price from $2 to $2.25."

Shepherd reported the horse racing attendance was up slightly, and that the pari-mutuel handle set an all-time record of $18,379,621, a 13-per cent hike over 1975.

The handle averaged $1,312,830 a day, and the final day of racing produced the biggest handle ever — $2,050,041.

Of the total pari-mutuel pie, the ticket holders get an 83 per cent slice, the fair association 10.25 per cent, and the state 5.5 per cent. Of the association's share, 52 per cent or $860,023 went for purses.

On the dark side, gross operating revenues increased 8.2 per cent, but expenses soared 27 per cent, leaving the association with $167,840 less revenues than expenses.

Shepherd said the association spent more than $500,000 on improvements and capital expenditures, most of which would not be visible to fairgoers, yet are necessary to the operation of the fair.

A fire sprinkler system was installed in Building 3A and fire exit doors were put up in several buildings on order of the state fire marshal.

The pari-mutuel windows on the mezzanine floor of the grandstand were revamped for $60,000. The monorail was completely rebuilt for $150,000. More than $24,000 was spent on new and used vehicles, $27,000 on a modern ladder truck, and $12,000 on air-conditioning in Building 7A.

The association board of directors has given tentative approval for capital expenditures exceeding $800,000.

Major item is a new metal barn to house show horses, sheep and goats. The $600,000 220-by-300-foot building will contain portable stalls, and a judging and exercise ring.

The old building erected in 1948 has been demolished.

Also scheduled is the revamping of the pari-mutuel windows on the main-line ground floor at a cost of $70,000.

The new windows will make it possible to handle more customers with the same number of clerks.

Electrical improvements in Building 6, 7, and the Floral Building will cost $50,000.

The five-year-old water truck used nearly every day will be replaced at a $31,000 figure.

Shepherd said that the association's 50th fair scheduled for Sept. 16 through Oct. 2 will stress a "Golden West" theme.

"We will suggest that our exhibitors and concessionaires display some semblance of western appearance," he said.

"Our night show and Sunday matinee schedules are being finalized, and contracts should be signed before the end of the month," Shepherd said. "We have a verbal commitment for an RCA Rodeo the first five nights of the fair and a repeat of "Up With People" for the middle five nights."

Shepherd said that a circus possibly will take the final five nights, and that a circus may be signed before the end of the month.

He explained that because of audience response to the singing group, ReGeneration, during the 1976 fair, it again has been contracted as extra entertainment on the grounds.

The National Indian Fair will be held again this year.

Referring to the City of Pomona's 10 per cent admission tax, Shepherd explained that for the past five years the association voluntarily had paid a 10 per cent race track admission tax, a tax on parking, and two cents a ride amusement tax for the Fun Zone.

GOP outnumbered by local Democrats

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Assistant City Editor

By only a very slight majority, Republicans still outnumber Democrats in La Verne and Glendora. Otherwise, Democrats hold leads in valley cities and in Los Angeles County voter registration totals released today by the county registrar-recorder reveal.

In La Verne, there are 3,970 registered Republicans compared to 3,925 Democrats, a very close margin.

In Glendora, Republicans lead Democrats 8,714 to 7,097.

Countywide, 60.3 per cent of the registered voters are Democrats (1.8 million).

All other valley cities are Democratic, even Claremont, which for years has been Republican controlled. The count this year is 6,489 Democrats to 6,257 Republicans, not a great majority, but a majority nevertheless.

In City of Industry there are 83 Democrats and 56 Republicans.

La Puente has 6,573 Democrats compared to 1,548 Republicans.

City of Pomona Democrats outnumber Republicans nearly 2-1. Totals are 17,965 registered Democrats to 9,550 registered Republicans.

In San Dimas, Democrats number 4,271 and Republicans, 3,643.

Democrats hold a small lead in Walnut where there are 1,846 Democrats and 1,550 Republicans.

In unincorporated areas of the county, 238,837 voters are registered Democratic while 132,942 are registered Republican.

Massage parlor curbs due

Having recently failed in an effort to get massage parlors in the city closed completely, Pomona City Council will take aim at the establishments again Tuesday night when it considers adoption of an ordinance limiting their hours of operation.

The proposed ordinance, drafted by City Attorney Patrick Sampson, would restrict massage parlors to operation between 7 a.m. and 10:30 p.m. daily.

Recently the city attempted to have the parlors closed by claiming the businesses were public nuisances. Law suits are still pending in that matter, but no massage parlors have been ordered closed by the courts.

Volunteers build fund for war against heart disease

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Volunteers in the San Gabriel and Pomona Valleys are now distributing heart-saving materials and collecting funds to pay for Heart Association research.

"When it finally sinks in that over half of all American deaths of all causes are the result of diseases of the heart and blood vessels it's alarming," said Seville Mollay, new division chairman of the 1977 heart fund drive in the area.

Mrs. Mollay is coordinating the volunteers in Azusa, Bassett, Baldwin Park, Charter Oak, Claremont, Covina, Diamond Bar, Glendora, Hacienda Heights, La Puente-Industry, La Verne, Pomona, Rowland Heights, San Dimas, Walnut and West Covina.

"Only broadly-based financial support can give us what we need," Mrs. Mollay said, "because we're fighting for the lives of two out of four persons who will die every minute this year."

Some campaign funds will be used by the Greater Los Angeles Affiliate's contribution of more than $800,000 this year to sponsor essential research into functions of the heart, the circulatory system, and the relationship of the entire body to heart conditions.

One of the researchers being funded by the association is Dr. Wallace Frasher, associate director of the USC Cardiovascular Research Lab, a unique facility funded by the Los Angeles Affiliate. Only one other such lab exists in the United States — it is at UCLA and funded by the same group.

Dr. Frasher has a problem. He wants to know what transpires when blood brings oxygen and nutrients to cells and takes away waste matter.

He wants to know how the blood got through tiny capillaries half the size of the blood cells they carried and where oxygen was transferred in the process. Was it in the capillaries or in the veins and arteries?

The tiny capillaries form an internal jungle that science hardly knows.

Further, Dr. Frasher wanted to watch the process. But it occurred at microscopic levels and it's hard to put the circulatory system under a microscope to inspect it.

"If you want to look at the living microcirculation, you have to provide the ability to get the tissue you want to observe while it still is attached to the animal, and in some reasonably normal state," Dr. Frasher said.

All of the facilities of the unique lab at USC, plus cooperation from Cal Tech, came into play as the device for Dr. Frasher was constructed.

Daniel J. Netto, an optical engineer at USC, who previously worked on the 200-inch telescope at Mt. Palomar, devised an optical system for Dr. Frasher's microscope. It allows the researcher to move the tube containing the lens up and down without losing his field of focus.

Next, a platform was constructed which would hold a large animal and all the equipment necessary to keep it alive, house the optical system, allow the researcher access to the field and not wiggle.

These requirements have been met by the construction of a 10-foot high, three-legged structure with a 400-pound steel platform for a working surface and another table at the top to mount the equipment.

Once the microscope was built, Dr. Frasher looked for a way to record the quantity of matter being transferred from blood to tissue.

Dr. Carol Marcus, who specializes in nuclear medicine at USC, suggested using a very small crystal that will only detect certain types of radioactivity.

Using a specific crystal which picks up beta particles, and shielding the working area with thin sheets of aluminum, the scientists hope to be able to learn exactly how the transfer between blood and tissue cells takes place, how long it takes for the process to occur, and how long the tissue retains matter before the blood carries it away again.

Dr. Frasher refuses to predict the outcome of these experiments.

"Nobody has ever looked at these processes in detail," Dr. Frasher said. "The information we presently have is based upon the injection of radioactive material into the main artery supplying an organ and the blood leaving the organ being sampled."

"The process of when and where the substance left the circulation is still missing. We have just assumed that material has moved from the blood vessel into the tissue at the level of the capillary."

Regardless of what Dr. Frasher and his associates at the Heart Association lab discover, they will be writing a new chapter in our understanding of how the body functions.

And valley residents can share in the accomplishment by helping to underwrite the cost of the research through their Heart Fund donations, Mrs. Mollay added.

Energy ratings find a home

Nine out of 10 prospective home buyers today ask about the heating and electricity costs of homes they are shown, according to a survey of 200 members of the National Association of Realtors.

At first sight, the only surprising thing about this is that the figure is not 10 out of 10.

But the survey, which was conducted for Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. by Marsteller Research, also found that while almost every home buyer in every income range is greatly concerned about fuel and utility bills, surprisingly few ask about the specific energy-saving features a house might have.

What this means, says Owens-Corning vice president Guy O. Mabry, is that home buyers need to be taught how to evaluate a home's energy-saving potential and to ask questions that in the long run could save them substantial amounts of money.

For instance, questions about the kind of heating system, type of fuel needed, whether the house is equipped with double-pane or storm windows, etc.

Something that could greatly assist home buyers, especially buyers of new homes, is what Mabry calls an EPM (energy-per-month) rating for houses, much like the MPG (miles-per-gallon) rating of new cars.

This would be a figure arrived at by considering manufacturers' efficiency ratings for furnaces, cooling systems and appliances, fuel usage and costs, insulation and other factors.

With the price of fuel going nowhere but up, it is not improbable that we may see the day when even owners of older homes, who have no intention of selling, will be asking experts in to determine the EPM ratings of their houses and tell them how they can boost them.

Is it possible to save?

If you have been reluctant to set your thermostat back to 55 degrees at night in the belief that it would only take that much more gas or oil to reheat the house in the morning, the people who should know say it really does pay off.

Engineers with Honeywell, the largest manufacturer of thermostats, have conducted an extensive study in major U.S. cities over the past 10 years to dispel "the myth of night setback" — that you burn more fuel in morning recovery than you save during the night.

They found that dialing down to 55 degrees for eight hours at night can, for example, result in fuel savings of 15 per cent in Atlanta, 11 per cent in Boston, 12 per cent in Cleveland, 15 per cent in Dallas, 16 per cent in Los Angeles, 9 per cent in Minneapolis, 12 per cent in Seattle and 13 per cent in Washington, D.C. There are comparable savings in other cities in the same geographical areas.

This is on top of even more significant savings — ranging from 22 per cent to as much as 61 per cent — achieved by a lower daytime temperature.

By reducing thermostat settings from 72 degrees to 65 degrees during the day and then to 55 degrees for eight hours at night, Honeywell says that total savings for these representative cities are:

65 per cent in Atlanta, 41 per cent in Boston, 40 per cent in Cleveland, 56 per cent in Dallas, a whopping 77 per cent in Los Angeles, 31 per cent in Minneapolis, 52 per cent in Seattle and 48 per cent in Washington.

It would be worth putting on a sweater and an extra blanket for these kinds of savings even if there weren't an energy crunch.

A message from one who knows

Not all the important stories in the Progress Bulletin appear on Page one. Like the one in last Tuesday's edition. It was about a Claremont resident who had gained U.S. citizenship by naturalization.

We think it is an important story because it has a message for all Americans, particularly those who take this country for granted.

Joseph Nammour of Claremont doesn't. Born in Egypt 52 years ago of Lebanese parentage, Nammour came to the U.S. about eight years ago under sponsorship of relatives living in Hollywood.

After taking the oath of allegiance to the U.S. at the Federal Building in Los Angeles, Nammour stated: "Most Americans don't appreciate what they have here. Especially the younger ones. Let them live in a foreign country for a year, and then they would realize what great opportunities they have in the U.S."

Well said, Joseph Nammour, American citizen.

Pension can of worms

Dear Editor:

"Military Pensions grow . . . and grow . . . and grow."

Why do they grow? Two reasons, first of all they are too big because they are paid to people who retire at an early age after only a short term of service, who are in no way disabled, and who are working at a non-military occupation, which will later qualify them also for Social Security. The second reason was covered by your article on built-in increases.

The solution in part is to withhold the military pensions until the age of 62 to 65, the same as is done with Social Security. A further cost reducing plan would be to impose the same limits on wages, salaries, and profits from self employment as are imposed on Social Security. As you know, a Social Security retiree may not earn more wages or salaries above $250 a month or $3,000 a year without being required to pay back $1 out of each $2 so earned. (Pay the tax on the $2 so you don't even get back a full $1 out of the $2 you earn.) At present a retiree on SS at the maximum benefit rate would get about $5,000. Add the $3,000 maximum earning ceiling and you must start paying part of it back.

At last report, our Representative Jim Lloyd was getting around $8,000 military pension and he doesn't have to return one dime of the $42,500 base pay as Congressman, nor any of the extra fringe benefits from both his status as Congressman or as a military retiree. I have not read or heard that he is opposing the $15,000 raise that is quietly being sneaked through Congress, so he will end up with some $57,000 base and fringe goodies, plus $8,000 Navy pay which I suppose will be increased to reflect the increase in the cost of living.

It is not my intention to make a scapegoat of our Congressman; it is an example of the completely unfair conditions existing in the pensions for military, and I add, many other government pension plans compared to Social Security. It is an example of why our elected officials have earned such low esteem on the part of the public. They and their bureaus and departments are "taking care" of themselves first and foremost. The public who are the Social Security tax payers get a few bones thrown to them out of the funds the public themselves paid into the fund.

Richard Gaibler of Claremont objected to the word "pension" and calls it "retired pay." That is just nitpicking. I object to the "retired pay" of Social Security being called a "benefit" — benefit, HELL, that money is the savings of the workers of the United States plus a share of the profits from their employers who are the private enterprise system from which all the taxes come that pay all the wages and all the costs of the government officials, and military and non-military personnel. Mr. Gaibler doesn't have the whole truth either. No one has all the truth except God, and so far, I have seen no newspapers written by HIM. Let's everyone lay the cards on the table on this pension can of worms and treat all citizens and military on an equal basis.

A legend in his own time

WASHINGTON — Gary Gilmore died thumbing his nose at society. He gulped down some contraband whiskey and glared around the execution room. "Let's do it," he said tersely. Then a Utah firing squad did its grim duty.

Now a psychological study by his prison doctor suggests that Gilmore may have stage-managed his own dramatic exit. He certainly had the flair for it. He was bright enough, with a sense of drama and a way with words.

According to his psychological history, he was "extremely hostile and aggressive." He often boiled over with rage. But he also had a "predisposition for acting out behavior" and a strange ability to manipulate other people.

His confidential records reveal that he led hunger strikes and organized suicide pacts in other prisons. There was a suspicion that he sometimes persuaded inmates to take suicidal risks which he shrewdly avoided himself. For example, he once reportedly mixed water with the blood from his wrist wounds to make the bleeding look worse than it was.

These incidents had their dramatic effect. But the ultimate drama for Gary Gilmore was the death wait at Utah state prison. The chief medical officer, Dr. Calvin Reed Brown, told us that Gilmore was fully aware of the impact he was having on a nation debating its first execution in a decade.

The condemned man began a 25-day hunger strike to dramatize his demand for a speedy execution. But Dr. Brown, breaking official silence, said Gilmore complained of a headache and took medication every four hours. This contained enough sugar to keep him going, the doctor reported.

Gilmore also purchased $200 worth of groceries at the prison commissary and stashed the food in his cell. Throughout most of the hunger strike, he was confined in a recreation room near the cafeteria. He complained mightily about the location and demanded to be moved away from the cafeteria, lest the public get the impression his refusal to eat was a sham.

Another time, the doctor asked Gilmore during a physical examination whether he really wanted to die. "You know I do," replied the convict. "The papers have said it."

He appeared always to have one eye on the audience as he played out his macho role. One of his last requests was for a copy of the Newsweek cover story on him.

But for sheer drama, few scenarios could surpass the suicide pact he made with his fiancée, Nicole Barrett. He lured her into the pact, with romantic poetry and artful appeals. Then he made sure she would take a lethal dose, while he carefully limited his own overdose, Dr. Brown told us.

As an added precaution, Gilmore swallowed his Seconal capsules shortly before the regular prison rounds, so he would be discovered in time, according to the doctor. It turned out that he was found even earlier by a prison technician who stopped by his cell to inform him of a long-distance call from singer Johnny Cash.

Gilmore was revived, no worse for the experience, in time to bask in the latest publicity. But poor Nicole, discovered by neighbors in the nick of time, barely pulled through. Said Dr. Brown: "Gilmore was a manipulator of people, of even his closest friends."

The doomed man appeared nervous as he boarded the truck for the execution room, Dr. Brown recalled. Yet Gilmore maintained his macho manner until the end. He told the doctor that he hoped there were "no hard feelings" over his past conduct. Dr. Brown asked whether Gilmore had any last requests. "How about a bulletproof vest?" smiled the condemned killer.

Of course, the last has not been heard of Gary Gilmore. Promoters are preparing to immortalize him in print, on film and on T-shirts. Already, his death-row romance with Nicole is taking on the dimensions of another Bonnie and Clyde legend.

But before the legend completely transcends reality, the true story should be told. The prison records show that he ran away from home at 12, that he was busted for auto theft at 14 and that he hung out with street gangs in Portland, Ore.

He constantly sought new thrills through both crime and sex. At an early age, he experimented with bisexual relations.

More fun at home

In island hopping the Caribbean since long before Castro visitors have discovered two kinds of natives.

Jamaica is a fairly typical example — an island of 2 million about the size of Connecticut.

For generations Jamaicans have been divided in their attitudes toward wealthy outsiders.

Some responded with happy anticipation of sharing the wealth . . . Others reacted with envy, resentment, anger — the surly cabdriver, the waiter who spat in the soup.

Fifteen years ago from Jamaica I wrote of the emergence of the "Rasta," the growing number of Red-lead, ganja-smoking, wild-haired haters. They drove the British out.

Now they are driving Americans out.

Because now the resisters — the "haters" — have their own prime minister.

Prime Minister Manley regularly broadcasts to the people his hate-the-rich rhetoric — denouncing what he calls "capitalist imperialism foreigners," denouncing even the home-grown Jamaican wealthy.

To the preconditioned rebel it sounds like an invitation to steal and to rape and to kill.

Jamaica's climate is as near perfect as Hawaii's — and some handier. So more than 7,000 Americans have vacation homes there.

But now those beautiful homes overlooking Montego Bay are locked and bolted and fenced and guarded by large dogs.

When Lady Sarah Spencer-Churchill was assaulted and robbed in her fashionable winter home recently the exodus was accelerated.

Now the "For Sale" signs are everywhere.

In the past eight weeks the number of British subjects applying for permission to leave Jamaica has more than doubled. It's not so much "anti-white" violence as it is "antirich." It is not exclusively outsiders who are terrorized and beaten and robbed; it's anybody who lives well.

Even native Jamaicans who can afford to get out are doing so.

There were 53,000 fewer tourists in Jamaica last year than in the preceding year.

Jamaica — when this orgy is over — will get tough with itself. When Manley has let the restive ventilate their wrath, he will imitate the disciplinary devices of his buddy, Castro, and enforce order.

The Bahamas went through a similar ferment a few years ago when an all-black government took power there for the first time in 300 years. Then, after a while of self-assertion, they began to re-realize their need for tourism — and managed to restore order.

Only thing is that visitors to the Bahamas are now subject to another kind of rip-off: grotesquely inflated prices — $2.60 for a Coke!

With Mexico in ferment and visitors there increasingly endangered, I'm watching several indicators indicate that Americans are about to rediscover America.

Doc Peirsol Just in jest

Some thoughts on today's spiraling inflation. — Is there any justification for a restaurant charging 30 cents for a cup of coffee? "No," says one Los Angeles restaurateur, who claims that even with today's high prices, the coffee in a six-ounce cup costs him 3.8 cents. Add to that the cost of sugar, cream and labor and he figures his total investment per cup comes to six cents. — One hundred per cent inflation overnight! You say it couldn't happen even in the worst of times? Well, how about those gum dispensing machines which formerly worked when you inserted a penny? They've been reset and it now takes two cents to operate them. — But never fear! Thanks to our new President, we'll lick this inflation mess yet. Among other corrective measures designed to help the national economy, he has quit the practice of handing out free pens to members of Congress when he signs bills.

What is the reason why Americans are today using 200 times more pepper than they did 10 years ago?

And perhaps most curious of all, why is it that the Post Office invariably manages to deliver first of the month bills on time?

The good old days

I've been dining out for years on my reputation as a veteran hot-shot Hollywood reporter. But I'm beginning to suspect I'm sailing under false colors.

I mean, I'm right in there when the locals want to know what Clark Gable was really like (kind of skittish with female journalists), how it felt to have dinner with Tyrone Power (whee!), and how I once shared a bed with Errol Flynn (we sat on it — and talked).

The thing is, I have just realized there's one significant thing these old red-hot lovers have in common. They're all dead. Have been for years. That's enough to shake you up some.

Still, Glenn Ford's still around . . . and Bill Holden . . . and Gregory Peck. I can carry on about them for hours, hoping no one will catch on that I'm as big a Hollywood has-been as Irene Dunne or Esther Williams.

What forced me to face up to this was the recent Oscar nominations. That's when it hit me: I, who covered a dozen Academy Award ceremonies back in the glitterdust days when stars did their acting standing up, haven't seen a single film on the list.

Not only that, I have never heard of most of the stars in the running.

Now I realize that times have changed, that old glamour pussies develop wrinkles and new faces come along. But who is Sylvester Stallone? And Talia Shire? Sissy Spacek? Marie-Christine Barrault?

And is everybody sure Giancarlo Giannini isn't an opera singer instead of a movie actor?

There were a few familiar names. Like Laurence Olivier, Burgess Meredith and Jason Robards. I remember Fay Dunaway and Liv Ullman. Even Piper Laurie. I knew her back in her starlet days, when she was munching gardenias to get her name in the papers.

But when did Robert De Niro and Peter Finch flash up to star status? And who might Jodie Foster be? And Jane Alexander, Beatrice Straight, Ned Beatty and Burt Young?

Sure, we had newcomers back in the "golden years." Once in a while an "unknown" even wangled a nomination. But it took nothing less than a miracle to snatch an Oscar from the clutches of a Big Name.

This year, the winners could turn out to be all unknowns. To me, anyway.

I suppose this is what comes of not keeping up with the latest Hollywood epics. But our regular movie-going ended years ago, back when Old Dad suffered through his first (and last) dirty movie.

We wandered into that one by one mistake and it wasn't, as I recall, X-rated. But even PG proved too frisky for Old Dad. He kept threatening to leave and vowing never again to let himself be bamboozled into paying $5 to watch "some skinny wench take her clothes off."

He hasn't, either. I had to go to my one and only X-movie without him. (Purely in the interests of research, you understand.) And not being up to blushing in the dark by myself, I persuaded a friend to go along, thereby doubling the total female attendance at that afternoon showing.

I'm not kidding. I counted: 34 elderly men and two women. All 36 of us trying nonchalantly to look as if we were someplace else.

And it wasn't even a full-fledged X. My more jaded informants tell me I settled for a half-dirty movie, where the girls got all the body closeups and the camera turned suddenly coy in the boudoir.

Whatever it was, it was enough. I didn't go to the movies again for years.

And then it was to take the little granddaughters to what I thought would be a nice, baseball picture, "The Bad News Bears." Where they promptly learned six new four-letter words.

Which may be why I missed all this year's nominations. Well, to be strictly honest about this, I was exposed to "All the President's Men" on a cross-country jet. Even plunked down my two bucks for earphones. And then slept through the whole thing. (Robert Redford, honey . . . please forgive me.)

Just the same, I still think it was more fun covering movies like "The African Queen," "High Noon" and "Gigi." Back when a star was a star, not a nekkid nymphet on the half shell.

Elderly drivers under attack

Dear Readers: A while back I printed two letters chastising the older driver. One was from a daughter who had to take the car keys away from her 84-year-old father. Another was from a wife whose 82-year-old husband "nearly killed the whole family." The feedback was fascinating. Here are some samples:

From Los Angeles: My husband is 81 years old, deaf as a post and his eyes are failing. His driver's license expired four years ago. He insists on driving on the freeway every day to go visit his sister in Pasadena. We pray before he leaves the house and it helps. There is no other explanation for the man being alive today.

Fort Lauderdale: There's a popular saying down here: "Old drivers never die. They just move to Tampa or St. Pete." It's the Lord's truth, Ann. The arthritic, the lame, the halt and the blind — they're all driving cars in those two lovely cities.

West Virginia: The roads in our state kill more people than old drivers. I hope our smart new governor will do something about it.

Dear Jay: Are you listening? Wyoming: In this state, if the body is warm and the corpse has the price of a license in his pocket he can drive a car. Sign me — Outraged.

Kentucky: In the Bluegrass State, if your license expires you have to take the test again as if you were a beginner. It happened to me and I was furious. But it turned out to be a good thing. I was forced to restudy the rules and I was amazed at what I didn't know. Although they are very tough on expired licenses in Kentucky, if you apply for renewal before expiration you can get it in the mail.

Mississippi: I have a neighbor who claims tax exemption because he is legally blind, yet he has a driver's license. Isn't this the craziest?

Missouri: Mother is 77. She learned to drive on a Model-T Ford. All she knows about a car is how to start it, steer it and stop it. Once when I was with her she drove on the sidewalk. (Thought it was the street.) The police officer let her off because she reminded him of his grandmother. I got so mad I had a headache for three days.

Illinois: I am proud to say that every person who wants to drive in our state must take a beginner's test at the age of 70. There are no automatic renewals for old gaffers in The Land o' Lincoln.

Alabama: The worst drivers in the world are running loose on our highways and city streets. If you value your life, stay out of Alabama. (We are moving north next month.)

North Carolina: Our state has been rated first by the American Association of Motor Vehicles Administration more times, consecutively, than any of the other 49. I'm proud to be from North Carolina.

New York: I keep hearing about old drivers being a menace to society. Anyone in the insurance business will tell you it's not the old drivers but the teenagers who are the maimers and killers. Tell it straight, Annie. Figures don't lie. — Big Apple

Dear B.A.: Right you are. The figures support your statement.

My thanks to all who wrote and my apologies to readers outside the United States for ignoring you today.

How Grant did love his wife

In our Love and War man's file on happy marriages is an item that reads: Possibly no other U.S. president adored his wife as devotedly as did Ulysses S. Grant. Historians who've studied the private lives of the chief executives say there's only one known instance wherein Grant ever got upset with his matrimonial mate. That was when she told him she wanted a surgical operation to have an eye straightened. Absolutely not, he said. Or words to that effect, he loved her just as she was.

Consider fights among animals, including man. What two things are most responsible for these battles. Love, you say? Yes, that's one. Love or sex or jealousy, whatever you want to call it. The other is territory. Or nest, den, home, boudoir, real estate, or likewise whatever.

FIERCE FIGHTERS

Q. "Who were the soldiers that were so fierce that they were required to wear bells to warn civilians of their presence?"

A. Believe you refer to the 5,000 female fighters in the army of Behanzin, the black king of Dahomey, West Africa. In the 1880s, that was. Those women beat up everybody who got in their way, so the king belted them all.

Q. "What's the average height of convicted rapists?"

A. Can only report that they're almost all shorter than the average man. Exceedingly few can be described as tall.

Q. "At what age does the average man reach his peak income?"

A. 56.

NAMES

Debate goes on as to whether every individual human being in history has had a name. Explorers reportedly have discovered some primitive tribes whose members supposedly had no names. But some scholars don't believe such reports. They think such tribespeople just refuse to divulge their names to strangers for various reasons of superstition. Have you ever heard of anybody anywhere anytime without a name? Neither have I.

The younger the widow, the greater her grief, however impermanent. And money doesn't matter, in this instance. The wealthy widow suffers for the time just as much as does the unpropertied widow. Such were the findings of an Australian psychiatrist who made a three-year study of marriages ended by death.

Claim is that one husband or another every day somewhere turns off the empty oven in the kitchen with some irritation, unaware that his wife is preheating it to cook something.

How do you account for the fact that members of the U.S. House of Representatives tend to be bigger tippers in restaurants than U.S. senators.

Planning for the planets

Which planet are you most afraid of, Venus or Mars?

Now that our deep space probe, Mercury 4, has circled Venus and Neptune 2 has been to Uranus and back, we feel we know quite a bit about our neighboring planets. And there are the terribly sophisticated — and probably bored — Viking 1 and Viking 2 scratching around on Mars or Saturn or wherever they've got to — you can never be sure with a deep space probe, can you? Inscrutable. You can never tell what they're thinking. Or even where they are.

Anyway, it will comfort you to know that I am keeping my eye on both Venus and Mars, and I will be the first to know if they try any funny stuff. (When they are in conjunction, I get cross-eyed.) Mars is that little tiny one way up there by the — no, no, look where I'm pointing! Not THAT one — that's the street light.

Mars is inhabited by a race of giant moles who dig large canals to puzzle astronomers on neighboring planets. (I have never heard that the giant mole story is true, but then I have never heard that it ISN'T, either, and that's good enough for me. I mean, if the giant moles aren't up on Mars, where ARE they? What's that looking in the window behind you? Ah! Jumpy, aren't you?)

However, it is Venus that poses the biggest threat to us earthlings, more than deserving of my unremitting watchfulness. She is sort of hard to make out because she wears a veil of dust or droplets or hydrocarbons or something — which is more than OUR Venus wears. (Bit of mythological ribaldry.)

Recent scientific examinations of Venus, beside sending questionnaires and junk mail, included floating a huge telescope into the sky on a huge balloon, sort of like the Goodyear blimp covering the Rose Bowl game. The telescope, which is really a camera — the words are used interchangeably, along with some other words that would never get into this newspaper — records all the canals on Venus, as well as giant moles. When the local drugstore had developed the film, scientists found what looked suspiciously like water. There was no surfing and sailboating, of course, but there were traces of aitch-two-oh on the cloud deck. More than you can say for Northern California these days.

Us astrologists have a saying, "Where's there's water there must be fire" — well, maybe I don't have it just right. Scientists also suspect Venus has carbon dioxide and free oxygen — making it better off than Los Angeles County — and all these things add up to one thing: LIFE! Venus is crawling with (shudder) Things, so keep an eye out for long green tentacles slithering through your window. Come to think of it, ha, ha, why don't you just close it — getting a little chilly, don't you think? And lock it.

At this very light-second, some Giant Green Adenoid may be squatting there on Venus, turning our space probe, Mariner 2, in its scaly claw, examining it curiously with its beachball-sized, globular eye and flicking its radioactive antenna in puzzlement.

What if it starts out to look for whoever fired the thing out into space? Aiiiiieeee!

Dr. Lamb

Heart victim wants answers

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 37-year-old male. I had a very severe heart attack when I was 35. A heart catheterization showed one heart artery was 86 per cent occluded at the front of my heart and an artery on the back was 25 per cent blocked.

About two months ago I had another catheterization and the artery at the front of my heart was only 80 per cent occluded but the one on the back was 75 per cent occluded.

I have been to four different specialists since then and some advise an immediate coronary artery operation and others advise taking my medicines and waiting to see if my condition improves. How in the world does a lay person know what is the best decision? Is there any evidence that the operation prolongs life?

I am not trying to put you on a spot in answering these questions, it is just that I am so confused, I don't know what to think or believe.

DEAR READER — I am not surprised that you are confused. Medicine is not an exact science and scientists often disagree over more exact matters — such as nuclear energy. In medicine, new techniques or new medicines are tested and they have their proponents who think they have had good success in using them and their opponents who have had less satisfactory experiences with the same medicines or techniques.

Whether a person should have a graft put in to detour blood around a block in one or more arteries to the heart muscle depends a lot on the individual case. There are some combinations where surgery will prolong life but your description of the location of your occlusions does not fit that category.

Otherwise, there is no complete agreement among experts that having the graft will prolong your life. It may relieve your symptoms if you are having chest pain.

With the one exception (blockage of the main left coronary artery) I usually prefer that the patient try a

What people say

"We did not want to cause hardship to anyone, but no government would have tolerated the threats, the violence, the assault on democracy that we faced."

—India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, opening her re-election campaign with an apology for her country's 19-month state of emergency.

"Joe Fan is paying the freight right now but won't continue to pay it much longer the way things are going. Everybody has a point where he says that's it — and gets off. I don't think your average Joe Fan is far from that point. Only some team owners still can't see it."

—Charles Finley, owner of the Oakland A's baseball team, on the increase in player salaries and the impending demise of pro sports.

Jacoby's bridge

Grand way to bid slam

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Jim: "Alan Sontag, one of the best of your young bridge players, has just completed a book called, 'The Bridge Bum.' The title is rather misleading since it is about Alan's bridge experiences and Alan is far from being a bum or anything like one."

Oswald: "Since Alan is just 30 you can call him young. He has won plenty of major tournaments including the Vanderbilt and Reisinger. We can show several hands from his book, although we will change the bidding in order to simplify it."

Jim: "Here is a hand bid to seven diamonds by Rubin and Matt Granovetter — partners in an important team match. North's five-trump bid was the variation of Ely Culbertson's grand-slam force as played by this team. It set diamonds as the suit and asked partner to bid seven with two of the three top honors, six clubs with one and six diamonds with none. Hence, North knew that South held the ace of diamonds and went to the grand slam. Their opponents at the other table stopped at six and both tables made six."

Oswald: "I won't go into all the play but as Alan points out seven is a good contract that can only be made if declarer has seen the opposing cards."

Ask the Jacobys

A Maryland reader asks: "I have a book written by Milton Work in 1929. Is he still alive?"

No, Milton Work, perhaps the leading authority on auction bridge, died 40 years ago.

Dr. Miller

Cooked corn OK for cats

DEAR DR. MILLER: About the only vegetable our cat, Frisbie, will eat is canned corn. We like it, too, so he gets some. Is it okay for him or did I read somewhere cats can't digest starch? — M.J.

DEAR M.J.: When grains are fed as an additive to a high-protein meat dish, cats can cope with them. Raw corn-on-the-cob would be hard for a cat to handle in many respects, but cooked corn, especially if ground, or at least mashed a bit, can be digested and utilized by a feline like Frisbie.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My first dog was half-grown when he started having fits and I had to put him to sleep. Someone said it was distemper, so I made sure the next dog I got already had his distemper shots. He was around the garage for 4 months, developed fits and I had to put him to sleep, too. My friend says that means the distemper shots were no good. Shouldn't I be able to get my money back? — J.F.

DEAR J.F.: Your best friend wouldn't necessarily be your dog's best friend. So in the future, where your dog's health is concerned, and certainly before you get another dog, consult with a local veterinarian. As for poor pooch No. 2, it's much too late for an autopsy on him to determine if, indeed, the fits were a result of distemper. While that's a possibility, of course, it's not the only cause of fits in dogs. Another possibility, and a not uncommon one (particularly around a garage) would be lead poisoning.

A dog with "fits" need not necessarily be considered an immediate candidate for euthanasia. He is, however, an immediate candidate for veterinary care. Early treatment can save many seizure victims, including some suffering from lead or other poisons.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I can buy my daughter a parakeet for a lot less money than I can buy her a canary. The trouble with that is, the parakeet eats more. So what I'm wondering is, which one would really be cheaper? — R.R.

DEAR R.R.: Eventually, those costs would tend to even out, so it shouldn't really make that much difference. What does make a difference, though, is which one your daughter really wants. Personal preferences weigh substantially in enjoyment derived from a pet and, in this case, the related care your daughter will give her feathered friend over the years.

What people say

"There's violence, and then there's violence. This is naked aggression . . . It's despicable."

— Hans Toch, a psychologist at New York's State University in Albany, commenting on the 24 Utah residents who volunteered to be in Gary Mark Gilmore's firing squad.

— "I'll have some peace and quiet and I guess I'll have a couple of cocktails."

— Fay Petrowski, a 55-year-old unemployed New York City seamstress, on what she would do with the $1 million she won from the New Jersey lottery.

For Tuesday, Feb. 22, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're on solid footing today as long as your approach is practical. Get down to the nitty-gritty before making your move.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The feeling of independence is strong in you today and you also have great mobility. You'll be better off declining offers of help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If the pace gets too hectic today, withdraw to a quiet corner and get your head together. You'll feel better for it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Friendships take priority today. Even if you have to subordinate your position to help a friend, you'd be wise to do so.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Early in the day you're not zeroed in on your targets. Later, you'll get the right range. That's when your goals are attained.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others may offer unsolicited advice today. You'll probably find that your ideas are better in the long run.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're involved in a serious situation, go straight to the heart of the matter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Use diplomacy and tact in your dealings today. When they see you're willing to compromise, others are likely to follow suit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're not unproductive today, you're just a slow starter. You could spend more time sharpening the tools than doing the job.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Though you might have had an active social schedule so far this week, you're not ready to come down to earth. Plan some fun later today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Faced with a difficult task, you become more persistent today. When the going gets tough, the tough get going.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Someone you're anxious to contact may not be available when you first call. Try to reach the party again later.

Your Birthday, Feb. 22, 1977

The coming year should be a pleasant one for you, with short trips to places you've longed to visit. The best part is you'll be able to afford it!

NOW makes plans for awards dinner

The annual Susan B. Anthony banquet of the Pomona Valley Chapter of The National Organization for Women will feature a talk by Eve Norman, western regional coordinator of NOW, and awards to six outstanding women. The dinner will be held Friday at Orlando's Restaurant in Pomona.

Pomona Valley NOW annually honors some of the people in the community whose efforts have substantially contributed to the welfare of women. Honorees this year are: Billie Moore, coach of the Cal State Fullerton women's championship basketball team and of the U. S. A. Women's Basketball team at the 1976 Montreal Olympics; Mary Etta Selle, director of special programs at Cal Poly Pomona, considered the "founding mother" of the child care center there and coordinator of Title IX activities; Barbara Hartline, counselor at the West End Women's Medical Clinic, volunteer speaker to young women regarding care of their bodies and the choices available to them; Ann Krueger, who designed and teaches the first course of women's studies at Mt. San Antonio College, started the Affirmative Action movement there, and has taken active leadership in the formation of the Women's Caucus on campus; Agnes Gilbreth, who helped bring feminist consciousness-raising to the area and by her dedication has kept it going and former president of Pomona Valley NOW; Paola Hoch, active in Project Sister, speaking to many high school groups regarding the problem of rape, and working with young people at Pomona Parks and Recreation activities.

Highlighting the evening will be the speaker, Eve Norman. She has been involved with the feminist movement since 1970, the director of Los Angeles NOW Speakers Bureau, first California state coordinator in 1972, developer of the Women's History Program and a participant in NOW activities in various western states as well as active on the national level of the organization.

Dinner activities will begin with a social hour at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m. For information and tickets call 627-8837.

Women in Action program developed

Mrs. Eleanor McGovern, wife of Sen. George McGovern, will be the featured speaker in the first of five seminars titled "Women in Action," for, about and by women at the Broadway Century City store, Tuesday through Saturday.

Sponsored by Estee Lauder Cosmetics and the Broadway, the sessions will deal with topics of current interest to women in a changing society and may well be one of the most important events for women this year, according to J. Janvier Wetzell, Broadway vice president.

The first seminar, Tuesday, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., deals with Women at Home. The Martha Movement, founded recently by Mrs. McGovern and Jinx Melia, both homemakers, is an organization which advocates improving the image of homemakers who not only feel put down by today's women's liberation movement, but have literally no economic security of their own such as social security benefits or job status if they wish to go into the outside job market later in life.

"Managing Money" will be the topic Wednesday evening and speakers will be Pat Wysokil, assistant vice president and director of marketing, First Los Angeles Bank, and Janice Notaro, senior vice president and controller of the same bank. Thursday from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. there will be a seminar "Beauty, from the Inside out." Ron Fletcher, former choreographer and owner of an exercise salon, will illustrate his program for body health used by such personalities as Sandy Duncan and Ali MacGraw. Nutritionist Hermien Lee will discuss "A Weigh of Life."

A session on "Women in Action and Interaction" will be presented Friday by Sandi Winston and Randi Gunther, and the series will culminate Saturday with a session on "Women, Government and Law" featuring Congresswoman Yvonne Braithwaite Burke and Jill Jakes and Edna Alvarez, attorneys.

For reservations phone the Broadway Century City store executive secretary, 213-277-1234, ext. 213.

Conventional 100's Give Way To Merit Taste Science.

'Enriched Flavor'™ technology achieves taste level of higher tar 100mm cigarettes.

For years, smokers of longer length cigarettes were limited to brands that needed high tar to deliver full flavor.

But no longer.

The MERIT taste science that brought full flavor to low tar smoking has now been applied to a longer length cigarette. The result: a 100mm cigarette that delivers taste way out of proportion to tar.

New low tar MERIT 100's. Only 12 mg. tar. Yet packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco for extra flavor — the kind of flavor smokers of longer length cigarettes want, but could never get before at such a low tar level. Taste tests proved it.

Test Data Conclusive

New 12 mg. tar MERIT 100's were taste-tested against a number of major 100mm brands ranging from 17 mg. to 19 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were tested. The results: overall, they liked the taste of MERIT 100's as much as the higher tar 100mm brands tested.

MERIT and MERIT Menthol. King Size and new 100's.

The taste barrier for low tar smoking has been broken again.

REGULAR and MENTHOL

MERIT

Kings & 100's

Kings: 8 mg. 'tar,' 0.5 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Dec. '76
100's: 12 mg. 'tar,' 0.9 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.
